

Chapter 2: Races & Lineages

A visit to one of the great cities of Amantia – Rosegarten, Avignon, Arcadia, Ravenna, Bamako, Al’ Aqabah, Jaipur, Tlalnepantla – overwhelms the senses. Voices chatter in different languages. The smells of cooking in dozens of different cuisines mingle with odors of crowded streets and poor sanitation. Buildings in myriad architectural styles display the diverse origins of its inhabitants.

And the people themselves – people of varying size, shape, and color, dressed in a dazzling spectrum of styles and hues – represent many different races, from diminutive gnomes and stout dwarves to majestically beautiful elves, mingling among a variety of human ethnicities.

Scattered among the members of these more common races are true exotics: a variety of colorful fae, plane touched – tieflings, aasimar, and genasi, feathery avians, and amongst many more.

Choosing a Race

Humans are the most common people in the world of Amantia, but they live and work alongside dwarves, elves, gnomes, and countless other fantastic species. Your character belongs to one of these peoples.

Not every intelligent race of Amantia is appropriate for a player-controlled adventurer. Dwarves, elves, gnomes, and humans are the most common races to produce the sort of adventurers who make up typical parties. Aasimars, fae, half-elves, half-orcs, genasi, and tieflings are less common as adventurers. Other races detailed in this chapter are rarely found among adventuring parties.

Your choice of race affects many different aspects of your character. It establishes fundamental qualities that exist throughout your character’s adventuring career. When making these decisions, keep in mind the kind of character you want to play. For example, a goblin could be a good choice for a sneaky rogue, a dwarf makes a tough warrior, and an elf can make a master of arcane magic. However, these are typical archetypes, and you may want to experiment playing a character that breaks these tropes.

Your character race not only affects your ability scores and traits but also provides the cues for building your character’s backstory. Each race’s description in this chapter includes to help you roleplay a character of that race, including personality, physical appearance, features of society, and racial alignment tendencies. These details are merely suggestions to help you think about your character; however, adventurers can deviate widely from the norm of their race. It is worthwhile to consider why your character is different, as a helpful way to think about your character’s background and personality.

Alternatively, you could choose a Lineage (found at the end of this chapter). If you choose this option, you would still have a base race; however, something happened that altered them in some fundamental way. The Lineages section gives details on how the base race is modified.

Racial Traits

The description of each character race includes racial traits that are common to members of that race. The following entries appear among the traits of most races of Amantia.

Ability Score Increase

Every character race in Amantia may increase their ability score by up to 3 points. They may put all three points into one ability score, or may distribute those points across multiple ability scores. No ability score may be raised above 20 in this way, unless the race description specifically says so.

Physical Attributes

The races of Amantia have unique physical features (hair color, eye color, skin tones, height, and weight), size, speed, and longevity. These attributes are described in here.

Alignment

This is the alignment tendencies of the Amantian character race’s society as a whole. Players are not bound to this alignment but should be encouraged to come up with a background story to better define how this affects your character relative to their society.

Languages

By virtue of your race, your character can speak, read, and write certain languages. In addition, it explains what languages a member of this race typically has access to when they learn more languages. Chapter 4

 “Personality and Background,” lists the most common languages of Amantia.

Regions & Races of Amantia

| Region                          | Primary Race(s)                         | Secondary Race(s)                                                                                                                                       | Patheon(s)                                                | Primary Language(s)   | Secondary Language(s)                                                           |
|---------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Aislandt                        | Human (Aislandtic)                      | Aasimar, Durin Dwarf, Earth Genasi, Fire Genasi, Giants (all), Goblin, Kobold, Troll, Vanir Elf, Water Genasi                                           | Aislandtic                                                | Aislandtic            | Dwarf, Elf, Draconic, Giant                                                     |
| Al' Malik                       | Human (Al'Malik)                        | Aasimar, Genasi (all), Tiefling                                                                                                                         | Al' Malik                                                 | Al' Malik             | Nesian, Primordial (Auran, Aquan, Ignan, Terran), Infernal                      |
| Aragonne                        | Human (Arcadian)                        | Human (Sikassan), Tabaxi (Leopard)                                                                                                                      | Arcadian                                                  | Arcadian              | Gith, Sikassan, Tabaxi                                                          |
| The Avignon Empire              | Human (Arcadian)                        | Ananthean, Fae, Half-Elf, Vanir Elf                                                                                                                     | Arcadian                                                  | Arcadian              | Ananthean, Elf, Fae, Gith                                                       |
| Bageirna's Clans                | Human (Sikassan) Tabaxi (Leopard)       | Avian (Psitti), Loxodon                                                                                                                                 | Sikassan                                                  | Sikassan, Tabaxi      | Arcadian, Loxodon                                                               |
| Ben-Hazzir Coast                | Human (Al' Malik, Sikassan)             | Half-Hobgoblin, Water Genasi                                                                                                                            | Al' Malik, Sikassan                                       | Al' Malik             | Goblin, Primordial (Aquan), Sikassan,                                           |
| The Black Marches               | Human (Aislandtic)                      | Half-Orc, Goblin, Human (Ananthean), Roseland Dwarf, Tiefling, Wald Elf                                                                                 | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir, Choir of the Decaying Rose | Aislandtic            | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Goblin, Infernal, Orc                                    |
| Bohemia                         | Human (Ananthean)                       | Fae Elf, Half-Orc, Half-Elf, Human (Aislandtic), Gnome, Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                        | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                             | Aislandtic            | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf Fae, Goblin, Orc                                          |
| Chatoix                         | Human (Ananthean, Arcadian)             | Fae Elf, Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Human (Aislandtic), Vanir Elf                                                                                         | Ananthean                                                 | Ananthean             | Aislandtic, Arcadian, Elf, Fae, Gnome, Goblin                                   |
| The Dale Lands                  | Human (Aislandtic, Ananthean)           | Durin Dwarf, Gnome, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Human (Arcadian), Vanir Elf, Firlbolg                                                                           | Aislandtic, Ananthean                                     | Aislandtic, Ananthean | Arcadian, Elf, Fae, Giant, Gnome, Goblin, Orc                                   |
| Deva                            | Human (Nesian)                          | Aasimar, Genasi (all), Human (Al' Malik), Loxodon, Rakshasa, Tabaxi (Tiger), Tiefling                                                                   | Nesian                                                    | Nesian, Infernal      | Al' Malik, Celestial, Loxodon, Primordial (Auran, Aquan, Ignan, Terran), Tabaxi |
| Drachenthal                     | Human (Aislandtic)                      | Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                             | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                             | Aislandtic            | Draconic, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Goblin, Orc                                          |
| Duringaard                      | Roseland Dwarf, Human (Aislandtic)      | Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc                                                                                                                       | Dwarven Celestial Council, The Holy Rose Celestial Choir  | Aislandtic, Dwarf     | Draconic, Elf, Fae, Goblin, Orc                                                 |
| Eismeer                         | Human (Aislandtic, Ananthean)           | Dwarf, Half-Elf, Wald Elf                                                                                                                               | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                             | Aislandtic            | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf                                                           |
| Forest Kingdom of Suomi         | Human (Aislandtic, Il'tuik)             | Avian (Corvid, Raptor, Strigi), Durin Dwarf, Gnome, Goblin, Kobold, Orc, Tabaxi (Lynx), Troll, Firlbolg                                                 | Aislandtic                                                | Aislandtic, Il'tuik   | Dwarf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Draconic, Orc, Primordial (Auran), Tabaxi            |
| Garud-Guur Empire               | Hobgoblin                               | Avian (Raptor), Fire Genasi, Half-Hobgoblin, Human (Sikassan), Groll, Tiefling,                                                                         | Winter Court                                              | Goblin, Sikassan      | Fae, Groll, Primordial (Auran, Ignan), Infernal                                 |
| Gallia                          | Human (Ananthean)                       | Fae Elf, Gnome, Goblin, Human (Aislandtic), Vanir Elf, Troll, Firlbolg                                                                                  | Ananthean                                                 | Ananthean             | Elf, Fae, Giant, Gnome, Goblin                                                  |
| The Great Kingdom               | Human (Ananthean)                       | Avian (Cygni), Fae Elf, Gnome, Human (Aislandtic, Arcadian, Al' Malik), Roseland Dwarf, Water Genasi, Firlbolg                                          | Ananthean                                                 | Ananthean, Arcadian   | Aislandtic, Al' Malik, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Primordial (Auran, Aquan)               |
| Gorislav                        | Human (Aislandtic, Ananthean, Arcadian) | Avian (Corvid), Duran Dwarf, Gnome, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Goblin, Orc, Vanir Elf                                                                          | Aislandtic, Ananthean                                     | Ananthean             | Aislandtic, Arcadian, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Primordial (Auran), Orc   |
| High Kingdom of the Green Stars | Human (Ananthean)                       | Aasimar (Fae), Avian (Corvid, Cygni), Fae, Fae Elf, Goblin, Genasi (all), Gnome, Half-Elf, Human (Aislandtic), Roseland Dwarf, Tiefling (Fae), Firlbolg | Ananthean                                                 | Ananthean             | Aislandtic, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Goblin, Primordial (Auran, Aquan, Ignan, Terran)   |
| The Hives                       | Thri-Kreen, Human (Sikassan)            | Avian (Raptor), Groll, Hobgoblin, Half-Hobgoblin, Loxodon, Tabaxi (Leonin, Leopard), Wemic                                                              | Sikassan                                                  | Thri-Kreen, Sikassan  | Groll, Goblin, Loxodon, Primordial (Auran), Tabaxi, Wemic                       |
| Isle of the Wind                | Human (Al')                             | Giants, Tabaxi (Leopard)                                                                                                                                | Al' Malik, Arcadian,                                      | Al' Malik,            | Abyssal, Draconic, Giant,                                                       |

|                                  |                                       |                                                                                                                                                                 |                                             |                    |                                                                                                            |
|----------------------------------|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|--------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                  | Malik, Arcadian, Sikassan)            |                                                                                                                                                                 | Sikassan                                    | Arcadian, Sikassan | Infernal, Tabaxi, Primordial (Auran, Ignan, Terran)                                                        |
| Jever                            | Human (Aislandtic, Ananthean)         | Half-Elf, Genasi (Aquan), Gnome, Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                                       | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Primordial (Aquan)                                                             |
| The Jewel Coast                  | Human (Sikassan)                      | Half-Hobgoblin, Water Genasi                                                                                                                                    | Sikassan                                    | Sikassan           | Goblin, Primordial (Aquan)                                                                                 |
| Kaduna                           | Human (Sikassan)                      | Gnoll, Half-Hobgoblin, Hobgoblin, Loxodon, Tabaxi (Leonin, Leopard), Wemic                                                                                      | Sikassan                                    | Sikassan           | Gnoll, Goblin, Loxodon, Tabaxi, Wemic                                                                      |
| Kaiserheide                      | Human (Aislandtic)                    | Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Human (Ananthean, Al' Malik), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                 | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Goblin,                                                                                   |
| Karpathos                        | Human (Arcadian, Al' Malik)           | Cyclops, Greater Minotaur, Fae                                                                                                                                  | Arcadian                                    | Arcadian           | Abyssal, Fae, Giant, Human (Al' Malik)                                                                     |
| Kerma                            | Human (Al' Malik, Sikassan), Nifl Elf | Aasimar, Avian (Raptor), Genasi (all), Gnoll, Human (Arcadian), Tiefling                                                                                        | Al' Malik, Sikassan                         | Sikassan           | Abyssal, Celestial, Gnoll, Human (Al' Malik, Arcadian), Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran) |
| Kirhar Shahmate                  | Human (Al' Malik)                     | Human (Nesian)                                                                                                                                                  | Al' Malik                                   | Al' Malik          | Nesian                                                                                                     |
| Kingdom of Carpathia             | Human (Aislandtic, Arcadian)          | Half-Orc, Orc                                                                                                                                                   | Aislandtic, Arcadian                        | Arcadian           | Human (Aislandtic), Orc                                                                                    |
| Korga Khanate                    | Human (Aislandtic, Il'tuik)           | Avian (Raptor, Strigi), Durin Dwarf, Goblin, Half-Orc, Kobold, Orc, Troll                                                                                       | Aislandtic                                  | Il'tuik            | Aislandtic, Dwarf, Giant, Goblin, Draconic, Orc, Primordial (Auran)                                        |
| Le Provence                      | Human (Arcadian)                      | Ananthean, Half-Elf, Vanir Elf                                                                                                                                  | Arcadian                                    | Arcadian           | Ananthean, Elf, Gith,                                                                                      |
| Lombardi League                  | Human (Arcadian, Sikassan)            | Tabaxi (Leopard), Water Genasi                                                                                                                                  | Arcadian                                    | Arcadian           | Primordial (Aquan), Sikassan, Tabaxi                                                                       |
| Lunien                           | Wald Elf                              | Air Genasi, Aasimar (Fae), Earth Genasi, Fae, Gnome, Goblin, Human (Ananthean, Aislandtic), Tiefling (Fae), Firbolg                                             | Summer Court, The Holy Rose Celestial Choir | Aislandtic, Elf    | Draconic, Fae, Goblin, Primordial (Auran, Terran)                                                          |
| Laurecht                         | Human (Aislandtic)                    | Half-Elf, Human (Ananthean), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                                           | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Elf, Dwarf                                                                                                 |
| Maastricht                       | Human (Ananthean, Aislandtic)         | Fae Elf, Half-Orc, Half-Elf, Giant, Gnome, Goblin, Orc, Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf Fae, Giant, Goblin, Orc                                                              |
| Minatauros Militacracy           | Greater Minotaur                      | Cyclops, Fire Genasi, Human (Arcadian, Sikassan), Ogre, Tiefling, Water Genasi                                                                                  | Arcadian                                    | Abyssal, Arcadian  | Giant, Human (Arcadian), Primordial (Aqua, Ignan)                                                          |
| Mittenthal                       | Human (Aislandtic)                    | Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                                     | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Draconic, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Goblin, Orc                                                                     |
| The Molruss Tzardom              | Human (Aislandtic)                    | Aasimar, Durin Dwarf, Half-Orc, Human (Arcadian, Il'tuik), Orc, Tiefling, Vanir Elf                                                                             | Aislandtic, Arcadian                        | Arcadian           | Abyssal, Celestial, Aislandtic, Draconic, Dwarf, Elf, Il'tuik, Infernal, Orc                               |
| The Nations of the Spirit People | Human (Nesian)                        | Aasimar, Air Genasi, Animagon, Avian (Corvid, Psitti, Raptor, Strigi), Earth Genasi, Greater Minotaur, Human (Al' Malik), Tabaxi (Jaguar, Cougar), Tiefling     | Nesian                                      | Nesian             | Abyssal, Celestial, Fae, Human (Al' Malik), Infernal, Primordial (Auran, Terran), Tabaxi                   |
| The Northern Baronies            | Human (Aislandtic)                    | Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Human (Ananthean), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                            | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Goblin                                                                         |
| Ostlynn                          | Human (Ananthean)                     | Fae Elf, Half-Elf, Genasi (Aquan), Gnome, Human (Aislandtic), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                          | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir, Ananthean    | Aislandtic         | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Primordial (Aquan)                                                             |
| Orumai Sultanate                 | Human (Al' Malik)                     | Air Genasi, Earth Genasi, Fire Genasi, Human (Aislandtic), Water Genasi                                                                                         | Al' Malik                                   | Al' Malik          | Aislandtic, Primordial (Auran, Aqua, Ignan, Terran)                                                        |
| The Palatinate                   | Human (Aislandtic)                    | Half-Elf, Human (Ananthean), Gnome, Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                                    | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir               | Aislandtic         | Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Goblin, Orc                                                                         |
| The Pridelands of Nobanion       | Human (Sikassan), Wemic               | Gnoll, Half-Hobgoblin, Loxodon, Tabaxi (Leonin, Leopard), Thri-Kreen, Wemic                                                                                     | Sikassan                                    | Sikassan           | Gnoll, Goblin, Loxodon, Tabaxi, Thri-Kreen, Wemic                                                          |
| Prydain Highlands                | Human (Aislandtic, Ananthean)         | Avian (Corvid, Raptor, Strigi, Cygni), Fae, Fae Elf, Gnome, Goblin, Half-Orc, Half-Elf, Hill Giant, Orc, Ogre, Kobold, Roseland Dwarf, Troll, Wald Elf, Firbolg | Ananthean                                   | Ananthean          | Dwarf, Draconic, Elf, Fae, Goblin, Giant, Orc, Primordial (Auran)                                          |
| The Republic of Arcadia          | Human (Arcadian)                      | Aasimar, Cyclops, Fae, Genasi (all), Gith, Goblin, Greater Minotaur, Ogre, Tiefling                                                                             | Arcadian                                    | Arcadian           | Abyssal, Celestial, Draconic, Fae, Giant, Gith, Goblin, Infernal, Primordial (Auran,                       |

|                       |                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                |                                    |                                                                                                                                |
|-----------------------|----------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Roselandt             | Human (Aislandtic)                           | Aasimar, Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Human (Ananthean), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                             | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                                                                  | Aislandtic                         | Aquan, Ignan, Terran)Ananthean, Celestial, Draconic, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Goblin, Orc                                          |
| The Shessian Empire   | Human (Nesian), Tabaxi, Yuan-Ti              | Aasimar, Avian (Psitti, Raptor, Cygni), Genasi (all), Human (Al' Malik), Tabaxi (Jaguar), Tiefling                                                                                  | Nesian                                                                                         | Abyssal, Draconic, Nesian, Tabaxi  | Al' Malik, Celestial, Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran)                                                       |
| Sikasso               | Human (Sikassan)                             | Avian (Raptor), Earth Genasi, Gnoll, Half-Hobgoblin, Hobgoblin, Loxodon, Tabaxi (Leonin, Leopard)                                                                                   | Sikassan                                                                                       | Sikassan                           | Gnoll, Goblin, Loxodon, Primordial (Auran, Terran), Tabaxi, Wemic                                                              |
| The Southern Baronies | Human (Aislandtic)                           | Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Human (Al' Malik), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                                      | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                                                                  | Aislandtic                         | Al' Malik, Draconic, Elf, Goblin, Orc                                                                                          |
| Sverigegaard          | Durin Dwarf, Human (Aislandtic), Nifl Elf    | Air Genasi, Avian (Raptor, Corvid, Strigi), Earth Genasi, Fire Genasi, Giants (all), Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Kobold, Orc, Ogre, Tabaxi (Lynx), Troll, Vanir Elf, Firbolg | Aislandtic, Dwarven Celestial Council, Winter Court                                            | Aislandtic, Dwarf, Elf             | Draconic, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Orc, Primordial (Auran, Ignan, Terran), Tabaxi                                                   |
| Ta-Meht               | Human (Al' Malik, Sikassan), Nifl Elf        | Aasimar, Avian (Raptor), Genasi (all), Gnoll, Human (Arcadian), Tiefling                                                                                                            | Al' Malik, Sikassan                                                                            | Sikassan                           | Abyssal, Celestial, Gnoll, Human (Al' Malik, Arcadian), Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran)                     |
| Ta-Resu               | Human (Al' Malik, Sikassan), Nifl Elf        | Aasimar, Avian (Raptor), Genasi (all), Gnoll, Human (Arcadian), Tiefling                                                                                                            | Al' Malik, Sikassan                                                                            | Sikassan                           | Abyssal, Celestial, Gnoll, Human (Al' Malik, Arcadian), Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran)                     |
| Teutonia              | Human (Aislandtic)                           | Gnome, Half-Elf, Human (Ananthean), Roseland Dwarf, Wald Elf                                                                                                                        | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                                                                  | Aislandtic                         | Elf, Dwarf                                                                                                                     |
| Theocracy of Gith     | Githyanki, Githzerai                         | Human (Arcadian)                                                                                                                                                                    | Lich-King                                                                                      | Gith                               | Arcadian, Draconic, Urge                                                                                                       |
| Thoringaard           | Roseland Dwarf, Human (Ananthean)            | Giant (all), Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Human (Aislandtic), Kobold, Wald Elf, Troll, Firbolg                                                                                | Dwarven Celestial Council, The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                                       | Aislandtic, Dwarf                  | Ananthean, Draconic, Elf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Orc                                                                              |
| Tu Anatha             | Human (Ananthean)                            | Fae, Fae Elf, Gnome, Goblin, Half-Elf, Human (Aislandtic), Vanir Elf, Firbolg                                                                                                       | Ananthean                                                                                      | Ananthean                          | Aislandtic, Elf, Fae, Gnome, Goblin                                                                                            |
| Ul'itar Khanate       | Human (Aislandtic)                           | Durin Dwarf, Half Orc, Human (Arcadian, Il'tuik), Orc, Ogre, Troll                                                                                                                  | Aislandtic                                                                                     | Il'tuik                            | Aislandtic, Arcadian, Dwarf, Giant, Orc                                                                                        |
| Valdtlandt            | Human (Aislandtic)                           | Aasimar, Avian (Corvid, Raptor, Strigi), Durin Dwarf, Giant (all), Gnome, Genasi (all), Goblin, Kobold, Orc, Tabaxi (Lynx), Tiefling, Troll                                         | Aislandtic                                                                                     | Aislandtic                         | Abyssal, Celestial, Dwarf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Draconic, Orc, Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran), Tabaxi       |
| Vanaheim              | Human (Aislandtic), Vanir Elf                | Aasimar, Avian (Corvid, Raptor, Strigi), Durin Dwarf, Fae Elf, Giant (all), Gnome, Genasi (all), Goblin, Human (Ananthean), Kobold, Orc, Tiefling, Troll, Firbolg                   | Aislandtic, Summer Court                                                                       | Aislandtic, Elf                    | Abyssal, Celestial, Dwarf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Human (Ananthean), Draconic, Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran) |
| Varna Mageocracy      | Human (Aislandtic, Al' Malik)                | Roseland Dwarf, Genasi (all), Half-Orc, Lizard Folk, Orc, Tiefling                                                                                                                  | The Holy Rose Celestial Choir                                                                  | Aislandtic, Al' Malik              | Abyssal, Dwarf, Draconic, Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran)                                                   |
| Vinlandt              | Human (Aislandtic)                           | Aasimar, Avian (Corvid, Raptor, Strigi), Durin Dwarf, Giant (all), Gnome, Genasi (all), Goblin, Kobold, Orc, Tabaxi (Lynx), Tiefling, Troll                                         | Aislandtic                                                                                     | Aislandtic                         | Abyssal, Celestial, Dwarf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Draconic, Orc, Infernal, Primordial (Aquan, Auran, Ignan, Terran), Tabaxi       |
| Wallacia              | Human (Aislandtic, Ananthean, Arcadian)      | Avian (Corvid), Duran Dwarf, Gnome, Half-Elf, Half-Orc, Goblin, Orc, Vanir Elf                                                                                                      | Aislandtic, Ananthean                                                                          | Ananthean                          | Aislandtic, Arcadian, Dwarf, Elf, Fae, Giant, Goblin, Primordial (Auran), Orc                                                  |
| The Wild Lands        | Goblins, Humans (Aislandtic, Ananthean), Orc | Fae, Half-Orc, Hill Giant, Kobold, Ogre, Trolls, Firbolg                                                                                                                            | Aislandtic, Ananthean, The Holy Rose Celestial Choir, Choir of the Decaying Rose, Winter Court | Goblin, Orc, Aislandtic, Ananthean | Draconic, Fae, Giant,                                                                                                          |
| Yeenoghu's Dominion   | Gnoll                                        | Avian (Raptor), Fire Genasi, Half-Hobgoblin, Hobgoblin, Human (Sikassan), Thri-Kreen Tiefling,                                                                                      | Sikassan                                                                                       | Gnoll, Sikassan                    | Abyssal, Fae, Goblin, Primordial (Auran, Ignan), Infernal, Thri-Kreen                                                          |

Avians

Avians

Avians originally come to Amantia from the endless storm of mighty winds and lashing rains that surrounds legendary tranquil realm of Aaqa in the Elemental Plane of Air.

On Amantia, Avians create aeries in remote regions, often in association with portals to the Elemental Plane of Air. From these aeries, avians patrol the Skies for signs of elemental incursion into their homelands.

Avians prefer to live like the wind- unburdened and ever moving – yet they watch can watch over an area for years if that is what it takes to guard against incursions of Elemental Evil.

Avian Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 58" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.4(Hgt) + 5d20 | + 10(Str Mod)   |
| Female | 54" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.4(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

* Raptor & Cygni Avians add 2" to their height.

Avian Traits

All Avians have the following traits.

Age, Size, & Speed: Avians reach adulthood in their late teens and live a bit shy of a century. For purposes of game play avians are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking and can fly in 50 feet. Avians cannot fly in heavy armor.

Alignment: Avian have a variety of alignments; however, they tend to favor good alignments and are prone benevolence. They are rarely evil, with most driven by curiosity rather than greed or other dark impulses.

Languages: All Avians can read, write, and speak Auran and Arcadian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Nesian, Sikassan, Al' Malik, Aislandtic, Giant, Dwarf, and/or Draconic.

Avian Arrest: Avians have advantage on saving throws to resist traps that involve falling. If they make the saving throw, they catch themselves with their wings and take no damage as a reaction. They must also be able to fully extend their wings, which is typically 10ft.

Avian Types: Avians traditionally break themselves into several avian types: Raptor (Eagles, Hawk, Falcon), Corvid (Crow, Raven, Jays, Magpies), Strigi (Owl), Psitti (Parrots, Cockatoos), and Cygni (Swan). Avians may gain additional traits depending on their type.

Raptor Traits

Raptor avians are those who resemble various eagles, hawks, vultures, condors, kites, or falcons. The have plumage colorations that match their subtypes.

Ability Score Increase: Raptor Avians gain a +1 Strength and Dexterity ability score.

Eagle Eyes: When airborne and outdoors you gain advantage on Wisdom (Perception) checks

Dive Attack: If the Raptor Avian is flying and dives at least 30 feet straight towards a target and hits with a melee weapon attack, the attack deals an extra 1d6 damage to the target.

Corvid Traits

Corvid avians are those who resemble various crows, jays, ravens, condors, or magpies. The have plumage colorations that match their subtypes.

Ambusher: In the first round of a combat, the corvid avian has advantage on attack rolls against any creature you have surprised.

Corvid Mimicry: You can mimic the speech, sounds, and mannerisms of another person or creature. You must have studied the person or creature, including speech and sounds they make, for at least 1 minute. A successful Wisdom (insight) check contested by your Charisma (Deception) check allows a listener to determine that the effect is faked.

Strigi Traits

Strigi avians are those who resemble various types of owls. The have plumage colorations that match their subtypes.

Strigi Artisan: You have proficiency in your choice of Artisan Tools.

Strigi Observation: If you can see a person's mouth while it is speaking a language you understand, you can intrerret what it is saying by reading lips. You also have advantage (+5 bonus) to your passive Wisdom (perception) and Intelligence (investigation).

Pssiti Traits

Psitti avians are those who resemble various parrots, macaws, cockatoos or tucans. The have plumage colorations that match their subtypes.

Bonus Equipment: (1) +1 Rapier; (2) +1 Whip; or (3) 3 Potion of Healings.

Pssiti Defense: When you are wielding a finesse weapon with which you are proficient and another creature hits you with a melee attack, you can use your reaction to add your proficiency bonus to your AC for that attack, potentially causing the attack to miss you.

Pssiti Mimicry: You can mimic the speech, sounds, and mannerisms of another person or creature. You must have studied the person or creature, including speech and sounds they make, for at least 1 minute. A successful Wisdom (insight) check contested by your Charisma (Deception) check allows a listener to determine that the effect is faked.

Cygni Traits

Cygni avians are those who resemble various goose, ducks, or swans. They have plumage colorations that match their subtypes.

Cygni Diplomat: You have proficiency in Persuasion and Insight.

Cygni Navigator: You always know which way is north and the number of hours left until sunset or sunrise.

Beast Born

Beast Born are a group of sentient animals that have evolved a humanoid form either through magic or due to natural processes. It includes the playable races: Greater Minotaur and Tabaxi, but could include races such as Satyr, Selkie, Centaur, Wemics, etc.

Greater Minotaur

Hailing from the island archipelago southwest of the Republic of Arcadia, these rather intelligent Minotaur have set up a Theocracy called Minotauros. They venerate the Demon Lord, Baphomet - the Horned king. While they have a democratically elected Senate, all laws and candidates must be approved by the Council of Baphomet. The Council of Baphomet are those priests or zealots that have risen through the ranks and are ruled by a High Priest. The 'Greater' Minotaur race differentiates themselves apart from larger and brutish 'Lesser' Minotaur, due to their superior intellect and civilization.

A minotaur combines the features of a human and bull, with the build and musculature of a hulking humanoid, but with cloven hooves, a bovine tail, and, most distinctive of all, a bull's head. Fur covers a minotaur's upper body, coarse and thick on the head and neck (in addition males have longer facial hair which they often braid into elaborately), gradually thinning around the shoulders until it becomes humanlike hair over the arms and upper torso. The thick hair turns shaggy once more at the minotaur's waist and thickens around the loins and legs, with tufts at the end of the tail and around the powerful hooves. Minotaur take pride in their horns, the sharpness, size, and color of which are related to an individual's place in minotaur society. Fur and skin coloring runs from albino white to coal black (and may include spotting), though most minotaur have red or brown fur and hair. Their eyes are usually black, brown, or red, rarely green or orange.

Minotaur embody the tension between civilization and savagery, discipline, and madness, for they stand in two worlds. Tugged towards violence but bound by conscience, numerous minotaur is driven to rise above their dark impulses. Such a minotaur seeks the balance between the monstrous and the refined. Innumerable minotaur gives in to the temptations staining their souls and find themselves as thralls or sacrificed to Baphomet. Minotaur must struggle to become more than the beasts they resemble or else succumb to the demonic brutality they despise.

Labyrinthine patterns are important to minotaur, and these decorations appear on their clothing, armor, and weapons, and sometimes even on their hides. Each pattern is particular to a clan, and the pattern's size and complexity help minotaur identify family allegiance and caste. The patterns evolve through the generations, growing more expansive based on clan members' deeds and a clan's history.

Greater Minotaur Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight      | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|------------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 74" +2d10   | + Con Mod       | 1.7(Hgt) + 10d20 | + 10(Str Mod)   |
| Female | 64" +2d10   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 10d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

Greater Minotaur Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Greater Minotaur reach adulthood in their late teens and live about 150 years. For purposes of game play Greater Minotaur are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking. Minotaur are covered with fur that can range from white to brown/orange to black with a range of spotted patterns or monochromatic. They can have a mane of longer hair around their head.

Alignment: Greater Minotaur tend toward neutral alignments, as they are driven by self-serving tendencies. While Greater Minotaur are often evil, some gravitate towards neutral or even (rarely) good.

Languages: All Greater Minotaur can read, write, and speak Abyssal and Arcadian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Sikassan, Al' Malik, Giant, and/or Gnoll.

Darkvision: You have keen senses, especially in the dark. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Horns: You are never unarmed. Your horns are a natural melee weapon that deals 1d6 piercing damage + your Strength modifier, and you are proficient with your horns.

Hammering Horns Immediately after you hit a creature with a melee attack as part of the Attack action on your turn, you can use a bonus action to attempt to shove that target with your horns. The target must be no more than one size larger than you and within 5 feet of you. Unless it succeeds on a Strength saving throw against a DC = 8 + your proficiency bonus + your Strength modifier, you push it up to 10 feet away from you.

Goring Rush: Immediately after you take the Dash action on your turn and move at least 20 feet, you can use your bonus action to make one melee attack with your horns.

Powerful Build: You count as one size larger when determining your carrying capacity and the weight you can push, drag, or lift.

Imposing Presence: You have proficiency in one of the following skills: Intimidation or Persuasion.

Loxodon

Often a oases of calm in an otherwise chaotic world, the humanoid elephants called Loxodons exist in the southern subcontinents of Amantia. They hum and chant in sonorous tones and move slowly or sit in perfectly stillness. However, when provoked into action, loxodons are true terrors – bellowing with rage, trumpeting and flapping their ears. Their serene wisdom, fierce loyalty, and unwavering conviction are tremendous assets to their guilds.

Loxodons believe in the value of community and life, that members of a group have a responsibility to look out for each other. Once they have joined a group or bond with other individuals in any capacity, loxodons devote themselves to maintaining that bond. They coordinate their efforts and are often willing to sacrifice themselves for the group. They expect reciprocal loyalty and commitment from the other members of their communities and can be severe in their disappointment when their trust is betrayed.

Loxodons are tireless, patient artisans with an unrivaled intuition about their craft. Although they make nurturing spiritual leaders, their gift for stonework is so ingrained that they are often at a loss when they try to impart that knowledge to others.

Loxodons tower over most other humanoids, standing over 7 feet tall. They have heads – trunks, tusks, ears, and faces – of elephants, and hulking bodies covered in thick, leathery skin. Each of their hands has four thick digits, and their feet are the flat bottomed, oval-shaped feet of elephants.

Like that of an elephant, a loxodon's trunk is a useful appendage. In addition to providing a keen sense of smell, the trunk can be used to lift and carry even heavy objects. The trunk can be used to carry both food and liquid to the mouth and can even act as a snorkel.

Loxodon Height & Weight

|               | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 76" +2d20   | + Con Mod       | 3.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | + 20(Str Mod)   |
| Female | 70" +2d20   | + Con Mod       | 3.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | + 20(Str Mod)   |

Loxodon Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Loxodons physical age at the same rate humans, but they live about 450 years. They highly value the weight of wisdom and experience and are considered young until they reach their age of 60. For purposes of game play Greater Minotaur are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: Most loxodons are inclined towards lawful, believing in the value of a peaceful, ordered life. They also tend towards good.

Languages: All loxodon can read, write, and speak Loxodon. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Arcadian, Sikassan, Al'Malik, Nesian, Wemic, Goblin, Gnoll, Infernal, Draconic, and/or Tabaxi.

Powerful Build: You count as one size larger when determining your carrying capacity and the weight you can push, drag, or lift.

Loxodon Serenity: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed or frightened.

Natural Armor: You have thick, leathery skin. When you are not wearing armor, you AC = 12 + your Constitution modifier. You can use your natural armor to determine your AC if the armor you do wear would leave you with a lower AC. A shield's benefits apply as normal while you use your natural armor.

Trunk: You can grasp things with your trunk, and you can use it as a snorkel. It has a reach of 5 feet, and it can lift a number of pounds equal to five times your Strength score. You can use it to do the following simple tasks: lift, drop, hold, push, or pull an object or a creature; open or close a door or a container; grapple someone or make an unarmed attack. Your DM might allow other simple tasks to be added to that list of options.

Your trunk cannot wield weapons or shields or do anything that requires manual precision, such as using tools or magic items, or performing somatic components of a spell.

Keen Smell: Thanks to your sensitive trunk, you have advantage on Wisdom (Perception), Wisdom (Survival), and Intelligence (Investigation) checks that involve smell.

Tabaxi

Often referred to as cat-people or catfolk, Tabaxi represent a race of cat-like humanoids that take on the form of number of different large cat types depending on where they are from. Jaguar and Tiger Tabaxi originate the Nesian regions (Devan, Zacatlan, and the Warrior's Plain), Leopard and Leonin Tabaxi originate from the Sikassan regions (The Great Shining Plain and the Twisted Jungle), Lynx Tabaxi are shy and rarely seen but can be found in the mountain and remote forests of Aislandt and the Holy Empire of the Rose), and Cougar Tabaxi are ubiquitous and can be found in any Temperate or Tropical region. Most venerate (or at least pay lip service to) some form of the Cat Goddess Bast or Nobanion, the Lord of Lions.

Adult Tabaxi are humanoid in appearance and quite tall (depending on the species) reaching up to 7 to 7 ½ feet for the largest; however, are slender and nimble. Generally, their fur and eye color take on the color of the species to which the Tabaxi belongs, with the ranges normally seen in the original beast species. Tabaxi also have tails (Lynx Tabaxi tails are bobbed), a cat-like face, and sharp vision.

While Tabaxi typically live in clans in their homelands and are superior hunters, they tend to have an insatiable curiosity about them. This curiosity overcomes many Tabaxi, and they become wanderers and seekers of knowledge. While Tabaxi appreciate gold and trinkets as much as any other race, they would rather hear novel stories. When they become older, they often return home and entertain the kittens with their wild tales.

Tabaxi Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight   | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 75" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 3(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 69" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 3(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

* Leonin and Tiger Tabaxi add 6" to their height and their base weight multiplier is 2 instead of 1.5. Lynx Tabaxi subtract 18" from their height and their base weight multiplier is 1.

Tabaxi Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Tabaxi reach adulthood in their late teens and live a bit shy of a century. For purposes of game play Humans are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Tabaxi tend toward chaotic alignments, as they let impulse and fancy guide their decisions, except for Tabaxi that leonine – they tend to favor lawful alignments and are prone to hierarchy and structure. They are rarely evil, with most driven by curiosity rather than greed or other dark impulses.

Languages: All Tabaxi can read, write, and speak Tabaxi and the language of their nearest neighboring race. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Nesian, Sikassan, Al' Malik, Arcadian, Gnoll, Fae, and/or Draconic.

Darkvision: You have a cat's keen senses, especially in the dark. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Feline Agility: Your reflexes and agility allow you to move with a burst of speed. When you move on your turn in combat, you can double your speed until the end of the turn. Once you use this trait, you cannot use it again until you move 0 feet on your turn.

Cat's Claws: Because of your claws, you have a climbing speed of 20 feet. In addition, your claws are natural weapons, which you deal slashing damage equal to 1d4 + your Strength modifier, instead of the bludgeoning damage normal for unarmed combat.

Cat's Talent: You have proficiency in the Perception and Stealth skills.

Languages: All Tabaxi can read, write, and speak Tabaxi and the language of their nearest neighboring race. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Nesian, Sikassan, Al' Malik, Arcadian, Gnoll, and/or draconic.

Cat Types: Tabaxi traditionally break themselves into several cat types: Leopard, Jaguar, Cougar, Lynx, Lion, and Tiger. Tabaxi may gain additional traits depending on their type.

Cougar, Jaguar, or Leopard Tabaxi Traits

Cat's Prowess: You have proficiency in Athletics or Survival.

Pounce: If the Tabaxi moves at least 20 feet straight towards a creature right before hitting with a claw attack, the target must succeed on a DC 12 Strength saving throw or be knocked prone. If the target is prone, the Tabaxi can take a bonus action to make another claw attack.

Leonin or Tiger Tabaxi Traits

King of the Jungle: You have proficiency in Intimidation or Survival.

Daunting Roar: As a bonus action, you can let out an especially menacing roar. Creatures of your choice within 10 feet of you, that can hear you must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or become frightened of you until the end of your next turn. The DC of the save equals 8 + your proficiency bonus + your Charisma modifier. Once you use this trait, you cannot use it again until you finish a short or long rest.

Lynx Tabaxi Traits

Fade into the Background: You gain advantage on stealth checks. You cannot be surprised while conscious and other creatures do not gain advantage on attack rolls against you as a result of being unseen by you.

Keen Smell: As long as your sense of smell is not impeded, you have advantage on Wisdom (Perception) checks.

Dwarf

Ancient kingdoms rich in grandeur, halls carved into the roots of mountains, the echoing of picks, and hammers in deep mines and blazing forges, a commitment to clan and tradition, and a burning hatred of goblins and orcs – these common threads unite all dwarves.

Dwarves can live to be more than 350 years old, so the oldest living dwarves often remember a very different world. For example, some of the oldest Roseland dwarves living in Duringard can recall the day, more than three centuries ago, when they became a member of the Holy Rose Empire. This longevity grants them a perspective on the world that shorter-lived races such as humans lack.

Dwarves are solid and enduring like the mountains they love, weathering the passage of centuries with stoic endurance and little change. They respect the traditions of their clans, tracing their ancestry back to the founding of their most ancient strongholds in the youth of Amantia and do not abandon those traditions lightly. Part of those traditions is devotion to the Dwarven Pantheon, called the Dwarf Celestial Council, who uphold the dwarven ideals of industrious labor, skill in battle, and devotion to the forge.

Dwarven homelands stretch deep beneath the mountains where the dwarves mine gems and precious metals and forge items of wonder. They love the beauty and artistry of precious metals and fine jewelry, and in some dwarves, this festers into avarice (especially among Durin Dwarves). Whatever wealth they cannot find in their mountains, they gain through trade. Trustworthy members of other races are welcome in dwarf settlements, though some areas are off limits even to them. This trust is much harder to earn amongst the suspicious Durin dwarves.

The chief unit of dwarven society is the clan, and dwarves highly value social standing. Even dwarves who live far from their own homelands cherish their clan identities and affiliations, recognize their related dwarves, and invoke their ancestors' names in oaths and curses. To be clanless is the worst fate that can befall a dwarf.

The main modern homelands of dwarves are Thoringard and Duringard - which are Roseland dwarf holding within the Holy Rose Empire, and Sverigegaard - the Durin dwarf homeland. Dwarves who take up the adventuring life might be motivated by a desire for treasure – for its own sake (Durin dwarves) for a specific purpose, or out of an altruistic desire to help others (Roseland dwarves). Other dwarves are driven by the command or inspiration of a deity, a direct calling, or simply a desire to bring glory to one of the dwarf gods. Caln and ancestry are also important motivators. A dwarf might seek to restore a clan's lost honor, avenge an ancient wrong the clan suffered, or earn a new place within the clan after having been exiled. Or a dwarf might search for the axe wielded by a mighty ancestor, lost on the field of battle centuries ago.

Durin Dwarf

Cowardly and suspicious, Durin dwarves are known as skilled miners, and workers of stone and metal, especially magical items. Durin dwarves typically stand shorter and are thinner than their Roseland dwarf cousins. Dwarven skin ranges shades in shades of darker stone tones. Their hair is worn long and is often unkempt, is usually dark brown to black. While Durin dwarf males have beards, they are not as well maintained as their Roseland dwarf counterparts. The eyes of Durin dwarves range from gray to brown.

Dwarves in other lands are typically artisans, especially weaponsmiths, armorers, and jewelers. Some are employed by rich patrons for their artisanal and are highly sought and can command a high price for their services.

Individual Durin dwarves are determined and loyal to coin, true to who can pay the most and suspicious of being taken advantage of, sometimes to the point of stubbornness. Durin dwarves have a strong sense of sticking to a deal, and they are slow to forget wrongs when they have been stiffed. A wrong done to one Durin dwarf is a wrong done to the dwarf's entire clan, so what begins as one dwarf's hunt for rectification can become a full-blown clan feud.

Durin Dwarf Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 44" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 41" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |

Durin Dwarf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Dwarves mature at the same rate as humans; however, they are considered young until around the age of 50. On average Durin Dwarves live to around 350 years of age. Durin dwarves are considered short compared to humans, but they are thinner than Roseland dwarves. For purposes of game play dwarves are considered Medium and walk at a speed of 25 feet.

Alignment: Most Durin dwarves tend toward neutrality, with some being evil. They tend to be xenophobic, grim, and selfish.

Languages: Roseland dwarves start out speaking, reading, and writing Dwarf, Aislandtic, and Underdark. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Ananthean, Giant, Fae, Orc, Draconic, Urge, and/or Elf.

Superior Darkvision: accustomed to underground life, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 120 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Dwarven Resilience: You have advantage on saving throws against poison and you have resistance to poison damage (explained in chapter 9 "Combat" in the PHB).

Durin Resilience: You have advantage on saving throws against illusions and against being charmed or paralyzed.

Dwarven Combat Training: You have proficiency with the dwarven waraxe, handaxe, battleaxe, light hammer, warhammer, and light crossbow. In addition, you have advantage to your attack rolls when fighting orcs, goblinoids, and giantkin. These creatures are at a disadvantage to their attack rolls when fighting you.

Tool Proficiency: You are proficient with the artisan's tools of your choice: smith's tools, brewer's supplies, or mason's tools.

Stonecunning: Whenever you make an Intelligence (History) check related to the origin of stonework, you are considered proficient in the History skill and add double your proficiency bonus to the check, instead of your normal proficiency bonus.

Durin Magic: When you reach 3rd level you can cast the enlarge/reduce spell on yourself once with this trait, using only the spell's enlarge option. You do not need material components for either spell. You regain the ability to cast these spells with this trait when you finish a long rest. Intelligence is your spellcasting ability for these spells.

Roseland Dwarf

Bold and hardy, Roseland dwarves are known as skilled warriors, miners, and workers of stone and metal. Though they typically stand well under 5 feet tall, Roseland dwarves are so broad and compact that they can weigh nearly as much as a human standing 2 feet taller. Their courage and endurance are also easily a match for any of the larger folk.

Dwarves in other lands are typically artisans, especially weaponsmiths, armorers, and jewelers. Some become mercenaries or bodyguards, highly sought after for their courage and loyalty.

Dwarven skin ranges shades of stone and earth - light gray to darker grays and tan to dark brown. Their hair is worn long but in simple styles, is usually orange to dark brown. Male dwarves value their beards highly and groom them carefully. The eyes of Roseland dwarves range orange to brown, rarely blue.

Individual Roseland dwarves are determined and loyal, true to their word and decisive in action, sometimes to the point of stubbornness. Many Roseland dwarves have a strong sense of justice, and they are slow to forget wrongs they have suffered. A wrong done to one Roseland dwarf is a wrong done to the dwarf's entire clan, so what begins as one dwarf's hunt for vengeance can become a full-blown clan feud.

Roseland Dwarf Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight   | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 47" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 2(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 44" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 2(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |

Roseland Dwarf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Dwarves mature at the same rate as humans; however, they are considered young until around the age of 50. On average Roseland Dwarves live to around 350 years of age. Roseland dwarves are considered short compared to humans, but they are stockier. For purposes of game play dwarves are considered Medium and walk at a speed of 25 feet.

Alignment: Most Roseland dwarves tend toward law and good. They have a strong sense of fair play.

Languages: Roseland dwarves start out speaking, reading, and writing Dwarf and Aislander. If the character can learn more languages, they may choose from the following: Ananthean, Al'Malik, Giant, Fae, Orc, Elf, Draconic, and/or Gnoll.

Darkvision: Accustomed to underground life, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Dwarven Resilience: You have advantage on saving throws against poison and you have resistance to poison damage (explained in chapter 9 "Combat" in the PHB).

Dwarven Combat Training: You have proficiency with the dwarven waraxe, handaxe, battleaxe, light hammer, warhammer, and light crossbow. In addition, you have advantage to your attack rolls when fighting orcs, goblinoids, and giantkin. These creatures are at a disadvantage to their attack rolls when fighting you.

Tool Proficiency: You can gain proficiency with the artisan's tools of your choice: smith's tools, brewer's supplies, or mason's tools.

Stonecunning: Whenever you make an Intelligence (History) check related to the origin of stonework, you are considered proficient in the History skill and add double your proficiency bonus to the check, instead of your normal proficiency bonus.

Dwarven Armor Training: You have proficiency with light and medium armor.

Elf

Elves are a magical people descendant from the Fae, living in the world but entirely part of it. They live in places of ethereal beauty, in the midst of ancient forests or in silvery spires glittering with faerie light, where soft music drifts through the air and gentle fragrances waft on the breeze. Elves love nature and magic, art and artistry, music and poetry, and the good things of the world.

With their unearthly grace and fine features, elves appear hauntingly beautiful to humans and members of many other races. They are slightly than humans on average (depending on subrace), ranging from well under 5 feet to over 6 feet tall. They typically are slenderer than humans.

Elves' coloration encompasses a wide variety of ranges as detailed under each subrace. Universally elves have little or no facial and body hair, the exception being the Vanir elves. They favor elegant clothing in bright colors, and they enjoy simple yet lovely jewelry. Other lineages of elves do exist, such as Avariel, Sea elves, and Star elves; they are detailed in this guide.

Elves can live well over 700 years, giving them a broad perspective on events that might trouble shorter-lived races more deeply. They are more often amused than excited, and more likely to be curious than greedy. They tend to remain aloof and unfazed by petty happenstance. When pursuing a goal; however, whether adventuring on a mission or learning a new skill or art, elves can be focused and relentless. They are slow to make friends or enemies, and even slower to forget them. They reply to petty insults with disdain and to serious insults with vengeance.

Like the branches of a young tree, elves are flexible in the face of danger. They trust in diplomacy and compromise to resolve differences before they escalate to violence. They have been known to retreat from intrusions into their woodland homes, confident they can simply wait the invaders out. But when the need arises, elves reveal a stern martial side, demonstrating skill with sword, bow, and strategy.

Most elves dwell in small forest villages hidden among the trees. Elves hunt game, gather food, and grow vegetables, and their skill and magic allow them to support themselves without the need for clearing and plowing the land. They are talented artisans, crafting finely worked clothes and art objects. Their contact with outsiders is usually limited, though a few elves make a good living by trading crafted items for metals (which they have no interest in mining).

Elves encountered outside their own lands are commonly traveling minstrels, artists, or sages. Human nobles compete for the services of elf instructors to teach swordplay or magic to their children.

Elves take up adventuring out of wanderlust. Since they are so long-lived, they can enjoy centuries of exploration and discovery. They dislike the pace of human society, which is regimented from day to day but constantly changing over the decades, so they find careers that let them travel freely and set their own pace. Elves also enjoy exercising their martial prowess or gaining greater magical power, and adventuring allows them to do so. Some might join with rebel fighting against oppression, and others might become champions of moral causes.

Elf Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight    | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 59" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 1 (Hgt) + 5d20 | +5 (Str Mod)    |
| Female | 55" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 1 (Hgt) + 5d20 | +5 (Str Mod)    |

* Nilf elves reverse the sexes and add +2" to their height. Vanir elves add +3" to their height and use a 1.5 weight multiplier, instead of 1. Fae elves subtract 4' from their height.

Fae Elf

Fae elves are more tolerant and adventurous than elves of other sorts. Traditionally hailing from the Green Star Islands, the dissolution of their empires in ancient times dispersed Fae elves among the other races, and since then they have traditionally gotten along well with their non-elf neighbors. They mingle with other people while their kin remain in hidden settlements and secluded strongholds. Of the elves, they still retain a good deal of Fae blood and have more of their curiosity, humor, and penchant for adventure.

Fae elves are sometimes seen as frivolous, especially by other elves. But it is this easygoing, fluid nature of their culture, philosophy, and personality that has enabled them to survive and flourish during and after tragic times in elven history. While communities of Fae elves can be found around Amantia and in the Green Star Islands in particular, many Fae elves live in the settlements of other races, staying for a few seasons or several decades before moving on.

To a Fae elf, home can be among members of one's own family, clan, or other friends and loved ones. Fae elves who temporarily take up residence among Vanir elf communities are not shy about expressing the opinion that their kin need to be less serious. In turn, the Vanir elves pretend to be more annoyed by their Fae elf neighbors than they truly are, provided that their whims and adventuresome urges do not cause serious disruption. Given that the Fae elf usually moves on before wearing out their welcome, such unrest rarely occurs.

Fae elves are the shortest and most petite of the elves. They have very pale complexions tinged with blues, greens, or purples, their hair colors tend to match their skin tones, such as dark blue, green, or purple and their eyes are also similar in color to their hair tones. Fae elves enjoy decorating their skin with tattoos of archaic design, which are often magical in nature.

Fae Elf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Elves physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. An elf typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100 and can live to be 750 years of age. Fae elves are the smallest of the elves but have the longest ears. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Most Fae elves tend toward "gentler aspects" of chaos and good, thus they value freedom, variety, and self-expression.

Languages: Fae elves start out speaking, reading, and writing Elf, Fae, and Ananthean. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Dwarf, Orc, Giant, Draconic, and/or Primordial.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Fae Magic: You know one cantrip from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list, in addition you may also cast Detect Evil and Good. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list and at 5th level you know one 2nd Level from the same spell list. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spell casting ability for it.

Trance: Elves do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Tattoo Magic: You learn tattoo magic and have proficiency with the artisan's tool: tattoo kit.

- You can infuse a spell into a tattoo. Use the rules on making a consumable magic item (see Chapter 1, "Adventuring" section, "Downtime Activities" description).
- You do not need a spell slot to create the tattoo if you have innate magic, but you will have to cast the spell and expend a use of the spell. If you do have spell slots, you may use a spell slot to cast the spell into the tattoo.
- To trigger the spell, you need to touch the tattoo. Once triggered, the spell is expended. The tattoo loses the magic infused in it. You may however, use the tattoo, to infuse another spell into it (reduce cost and time by half).
- A medium sized creature can hold up to 5 tattoos.

Extra Language: You can speak, read, and write one extra language from the list for Fae elves.

Nero (Sea) Elf

Often called Sea or Aquatic elves, this branch of elves fell in love with the wild beauty of the ocean in the earliest days of the elf diaspora. While other elves spread across the lands of Amantia, the sea elves navigated the deepest currents and explored the waters across the world. Today they live in small, hidden communities in the ocean shallows.

Nero Elf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Elves physically mature at the same rate as humans; however: however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. An elf typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100 and can live to be 750 years of age. Nero elves tend to be of similar height and weight as Wald elves. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: Most Nero elves tend toward "gentler aspects" of chaos and good, thus they value freedom, variety, and self-expression.

Languages: Nero elves can read, write, and speak Elf, Primordial (Aquan), and typically Arcadian. If you can learn additional languages then you can learn from the following languages: Ananthean, Fae, Urge, Draconic, Aislandtic, Al' Malik, Sikassan, Nesian, and/or Sahuagin.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Trance: Elves do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Nero Elf Weapon Training: You have proficiency with spear, trident, light crossbow, and net.

Child of the Sea: You have a swimming speed of 30 feet, and you can breathe air and water.

Friend of the Sea: Using gestures and sounds, you can communicate simple ideas with any beast that has an innate swimming speed.

Nifl (Dark) Elf

---

Often called Dark elves, the Nifl elves are descendants of Vanir elves that retreated into the Underdark after the Elf Wars millennia ago. They are infamous for their cruelty, evilness, and drive to dominate.

For much of history, many believed that all Nifl elves were beings of inherent and irredeemable evil. In truth, most Nifl do align with evil engaging in torture, slavery, murder, and other nefarious activities in the name of their evil Deities – Hel in the North and Set in Tawys. Almost always, Nifl elves that reject the ways of their people are exiled, executed, or sacrificed for being rebels, heretics, and insurrectionists who have turned against Nifl culture and the will of their Deities. But the existence of noble and self-sacrificing Nifl do exist, this suggests that the evil of the Nifl is not innate and can be overcome. The actions of these few heroic Nifl elves have tempered some people's opinion towards the race, although the appearance of a Nifl elf is rare event and cause for alarm.

The Nifl elves split from the Vanir elves during the Elf Wars and retreated to the underdark beneath the Aesirheim Mountains to establish a new homeland, Niflheim. These Nifl elves venerate the Deity Hel, who instigated the Elf Wars. Several centuries later, a group of Nifl elves found their way, using underground highways, to the area that is under Tawys. They eventually invaded and conquered the surface lands of the Pharaohs and established themselves as the new God-kings and Queens of the Tawys, revering the evil Deity Set and ruling the surface inhabitants from the realms below.

Inherent magical abilities and a preference for the dark places make Nifl elves adept at assassins, thieves, and spies. Traditionally those elves living in Niflheim follow a strict matriarch who is either a priestess or necromancer of high esteem from the highest-ranking noble family, while the males fulfill the roles of warriors and wizards (they are never allowed to be Priests). Those male and female Nifl elves dwelling under the deserts of Tawys share power. Nifl elf exiles tend to follow their own path regardless of gender.

Nifl Elf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Elves physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. An elf typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100 and can live to be 750 years of age. Nifl elves tend to be of similar height and weight as Wald elves; However, the females are larger than the males on average. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: Nifl elves have two homelands: those in the North underdark realm of Niflheim beneath the Aesirheim Mountains that revere the Aislandtic Deity Hel and those in the Southern Realm of Tawys that revere the Sikassan Deity Set. The Niflheim elves tend towards Neutrality and Evil, while those in Tawys lean towards more discipline and favor Law and Evil.

Languages: Nifl elves start out speaking, reading, and writing Elf, Aislandtic (Niflheim elves) or Sikassan (Tawys elves). If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Underdark Trade, Giant, Orc, Fae, Dwarf, Draconic, Primordial, and/or Urge.

Superior Darkvision: accustomed to underground life, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 120 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Trance: Elves do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Sunlight Sensitivity: Niflheim elves have disadvantage on attack rolls and Wisdom (perception) checks that rely on sight when you, the target of your attack, or whatever you are trying to perceive is in direct sunlight.

Nifl Magic: Niflheim elves know the dancing lights cantrip. Tawys elves do not receive this spell. Nifl elves from both regions can cast the animate dead spell, as a boon from the Nifl elf celestial patrons, once with this trait when you reach 5th level. You can regain this ability after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spellcasting ability for these spells.

Nifl Elf Weapon Training: You have proficiency with the khopesh (Tawys) or mace (Niflheim), and the hand crossbow.

Vanir Elf

---

Vanir elves are the most common of elves in Amantia and claim the kingdom of Vanaheim as their ancestral homeland; although communities of Vanir elves can be found in the Aislandtic lands to their north and the Ananthean regions to the south and east – standing guard over the ruins of their once great past, believing in their duty to preserve their fallen glory as an object lesson of the dangers of hubris. Of the elves they tend to be the most guarded of others entering their territories.

Vanir Elves tend to be hardier than other elves, more solid and grounded than their cousins. This attitude is reflected in their culture and traditions; Vanir elves tend more toward physical pursuits than do other elves, and they view ancient elven history with a more critical eye. To the Vanir elves, the great ancient elven kingdoms were responsible for many equally great mistakes. They upon the Sundering, the split of Nifl elves, and other calamities as the result of acts of arrogance on the part of their ancestors. Living around and amid the reminders of this arrogance and standing witness to the rise and fall of many elven empires, Vanir elves see the place of elves in the world differently than other elves. Vanir elves seek quiet harmony, not domination, with the wider world.

Despite seeing themselves as part of the world, they do not commonly emerge from their homelands to encounter non-elves. Likewise, most likely due to their reputation of not treating visitors very hospitable, most Vanir do not come across members of other races. Adventurers, diplomats, couriers, and those who pursue similar professions are the exception, traveling far outside their homelands and meeting a wide variety of folk.

Vanir elves are usually taller and sturdier than other elves. They generally have pale skin tinged with light blue or green, with hair from white to sandy or strawberry blonde, and eyes ranging from lavender to light blue. Vanir elves are more than capable in warfare, particularly archery. They are less magically inclined than their cousins but have their fair share of practitioners of the Art as well as clerics and druids.

Vanir Elf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Elves physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. An elf typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100 and can live to be 750 years of age. Vanir elves tend to be about the same height as humans; however, they are sinewy and thinner. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium. Wald elves also have the trait Fleet of Foot that gives them a base speed of 35 feet.

Alignment: Most Vanir elves tend toward chaos and neutrality; thus, they value their freedom, variety, and self-expression. They are slow to trust others and sometimes outright xenophobic.

Languages: Vanir elves start out speaking, reading, and writing Elf and Aislander. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Fae, Ananthean, Dwarf, Orc, Giant, and/or Draconic.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Trance: Elves do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Elf Weapon Training: You have proficiency with the longsword, shortsword, shortbow, and longbow. In addition, Vanir elves have advantage when using these weapons.

Wald Elf

---

When someone traditionally thinks of an elf, what they are imagining is a Wald elf – also referred to as Wood elves. The hail from their ancestral homeland of the Lunien Principality, now a member of the Holy Rose Empire. Wald elves have a reputation of being reclusive and maybe a little self-important.

Recalling and emphasizing the glorious aspects of their history, Wald elves subscribe to the principle of “elven excellence” – no matter how interesting, exceptional, heroic, or noteworthy other races’ accomplishments might be, there is an inherent superiority to all things elven. Their haughty attitude can overshadow the fact that most are also tirelessly compassionate and thoughtful champions of good.

Wald elf culture and civilization is highly magical in nature, thanks to the race’s many accomplished wizards, sages, and crafters. Not every Wald elf is a skilled practitioner of the Art, but each one has at least a bit of inherent magic. Wald elves mix magic with other art forms, which produces the complex dance of the bladesingers as well as enchanting music of their bards and the meticulous craftwork of their artisans. Wald elf adventurers often bring a feeling of nobleness to their profession: they venture out into the world to challenge its dangers because someone must, and who would be better suited?

Wald elves are smaller and slenderer than typical humans. They are smaller than the Vanir, but larger than their Fae elf cousins – they are the typical elf. Their skin takes on a pale coppery hue often tinged with greens and blues, their eyes are brown, green, or hazel, and their hairs often brown or black, with occasional individuals with blonde or coppery-red hair are seen.

Wald Elf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Elves physically mature at the same rate as humans; however: however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. An elf typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100 and can live to be 750 years of age. Wald elves tend to be slightly shorter when compared to humans, and they tend to be slight and delicate of build. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Most Wald elves tend toward “gentler aspects” of chaos and good, thus they value freedom, variety, and self-expression.

Languages: Wald elves start out speaking, reading, and writing Elf and Aislander. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following:

Fae, Ananthean, Dwarf, Orc, Giant, Draconic, and/or Celestial.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Trance: Elves do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Elf Weapon Training: You have proficiency with the longsword, shortsword, shortbow, and longbow.

Extra Language: You can speak, read, and write one extra language from the list for Wald elves.

Fae

To most the Fae seem a strange mix of beings with a wide variety of powers and motivations. They seem to lack a coherent purpose and their chaotic nature only serves to frustrate those who deal with them. In truth Fae communities are no different to any other village or city that might be found across the world. All the Fae, however, are united by a common bond – their connection to sylvan glades and their ancient home, the Faewyld.

At a primal level, the fey are elemental (nature) kis. They embody the wild, chaotic essence that is part of every living thing.

Two factions exist among the Fae: the Summer (Seelie) and Winter (Unseelie) courts. Though this division is unseen to most mortals, it is a divide running squarely through the center of fey communities and none can claim neutrality. The difference is not in power or ability, but access to the gifts of the Reverie. A Fae gains their magical abilities and traits through access to the Reverie, where during their dream state their subconscious enters the Faewyld. This magic manifest itself differently in different types of Faeries. Both courts access the gifts of the Reverie, but their goals are decidedly different. The Seelie court seeks to encourage peaceful coexistence with the other races, while the Unseelie court seeks to remove anything that might be an obstacle to their goals of control and domination. While their goals may be in direct conflict, they rarely confront the opposition each other openly; however, it is totally acceptable to induce or otherwise coerce a mortal to take on such a dangerous task.

While this guide provides four playable races, there are many different types of Fae, such as Brownies, Gremlins, Redcaps, Satyrs, Dryads, Sylphs, etc.

Animangon

Animangons originated in the Feywild, where the speak Fae and embody the ki of freedom and travel. In time, these animal folk traveled to other worlds, bringing the fae realm's exuberance with them and learning new languages as they went.

Animangons are bipedal, with characteristics of there animal type – be it hare, racoon, red panda, hedgehog, etc. The share the keen senses and traits of their particular animal type (see Monster Manual). Animangon are blessed with a little fae luck, and they often find that themselves a few fortunate feet away from dangers during adventures.

Animangon Height & Weight

|               | Base Height    | Height Modifier | Base Weight      | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|----------------|-----------------|------------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 25" +2d10  | + ConMod    | 1(Hgt) +2d20 | +1(StrMod)  |
| Female | 23" ++2d10 | + ConMod    | 1(Hgt) +2d20 | +1(StrMod)  |

Animangon Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Animangon physically matures at the same rate as humans; however: however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience (some wonder if they ever reach maturity). An animangon typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100. For intents and purpose are immortal; however, than can die due to disease or being killed. For purposes of game play animangon are considered Small (>2 feet < 4feet) or Medium (consult DM on possible heights and weights depending on animal type) and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Animangon enjoy freedom and thus tend toward chaotic; however they tend to be benevolent and thus favor good alignment.

Languages: Animangon start out speaking, reading, and writing Fae and either Ananthean, Arcadian, or Aislandtic depending on their origins. If a character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Ananthean, Arcadian, Dwarf, Eld, or Druidic.

Keen Traits: You have skill proficiency, traits, and special abilities of your animal type (see Monster Manual).

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Luck of the Fae: When you fail a Dexterity saving throw, you can use your reaction to roll 1d4 and add it to the save, potentially turning the failure into a success. You cannot use this reaction if you are prone, or your speed is zero.

Eladrin

When the elves left Arvandor, they at first sought refuge with their adopted cousins in the Faewyld. The Eladrin are those elves that choose to stay in the Faewyld when the Elf Diaspora began. Due to there long association with the Faewyld became fae themselves, as such they are considered natives of the Faewyld – a realm of beauty, unpredictable emotion, and boundless magic. An Eladrin is associated with one of the four seasons and has coloration reminiscent of that season, which can also affect the eladrin's mood:

Autumn is the season of peace and goodwill, when summer's harvest is shared with all.

Winter is the season of contemplation and dolor, when the vibrant energy of the world slumbers.

Spring is the season of cheerfulness and celebration, marked by merriment as winter's sorrow passes.

Summer is the season of boldness and aggression, a time of unfettered energy.

Some eladrin remain associated with a particular season their entire lives, whereas other eladrins transform, adopting characteristics of a new season. For example, an eladrin might sift to autumn if filled with contentment, another could change to winter if plunged into sorrow, still another might be bursting with joy and become an eladrin of spring, and fury might cause an eladrin to change to summer.

The following Seasonal Personality tables offer pesonality suggestions for eladrin of each season. Or to stick to the random nature of eladrins you can simply roll on the tables or use them as inspiration for characteristics of your own.

Autumn Personality Traits

| d4 | Autumn Personality Trait                                                   |
|----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | If someone is in need, you never withhold aid                              |
| 2  | You share what you have, with little regard for your own needs             |
| 3  | There are no simple meals, only lavish feasts                              |
| 4  | You stock up on fine food and drink. You hate going without such comforts. |

Autumn Flaws

| d4 | Autumn Flaws                                                                        |
|----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You trust others without a second thought                                           |
| 2  | You give to others, to the point that you leave yourself without necessary supplies |
| 3  | Everyone is your friend, or a potential friend                                      |
| 4  | You spend excessively on creature comforts                                          |

Winter Personality Traits

| d4 | Winter Personality Trait                                                    |
|----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | The worst case is the most likely to occur                                  |
| 2  | You preserve what you have. Better to be hungry today and food for tomorrow |
| 3  | Life is full of dangers, but you are ready for them                         |
| 4  | A copper spent is a copper lost forever                                     |

Winter Flaws

| d4 | Winter Flaws                                                                               |
|----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | Everything dies eventually. Why bother building anything that is supposedly meant to last? |
| 2  | Nothing matters to you, and you allow others to guide your actions                         |
| 3  | Your needs come first. In winter, all must watch out for themselves                        |
| 4  | You speak only to point out the flaws in others' plans                                     |

Spring Personality Traits

| d4 | Spring Personality Trait                                               |
|----|------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | Every day is the greatest day of your life                             |
| 2  | You approach everything with enthusiasm, even the most mundane chores  |
| 3  | You love music and song. You supply a tune yourself if no one else can |
| 4  | You cannot stay still                                                  |

Spring Flaws

| d4 | Spring Flaws                                                                       |
|----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You overdrink                                                                      |
| 2  | Toil is for drudges. Yours should be a life of leisure                             |
| 3  | A pretty face infatuates you in an instant, but your fancy passes with equal speed |
| 4  | Anything worth doing is worth doing again and again                                |

Summer Personality Traits

| d4 | Summer Personality Trait                                                                                    |
|----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You believe that direct confrontation is the best way to solve problems                                     |
| 2  | Overwhelming force can accomplish almost anything. The tougher the problem, the more force you apply        |
| 3  | You stand tall and strong so that others can lean on you                                                    |
| 4  | You maintain an intimidating front. It is better to prevent fights with a show of force than to harm others |

Summer Flaws

| d4 | Summer Flaws                                                       |
|----|--------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You are stubborn. Let others change                                |
| 2  | The best option is one that is swift, unexpected, and overwhelming |
| 3  | Punch first, talk later                                            |
| 4  | Your fury can carry you through anything                           |

Eladrin Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight   | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 55" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 1(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 51" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 1(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |

Eladrin Traits

Eladrin have the following traits in common. Choose your eladrin's season: autumn, winter, spring, or summer.

Age, Size, & Speed: Eladrins physically mature at the same rate as humans; however: however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. An elf typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100 and can live to be 750 years of age. Fae elves are the smallest of the elves but have the longest ears. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Most Eladrin tend toward "gentler aspects" of chaos and good, thus they value freedom, variety, and self-expression.

Languages: Eladrins start out speaking, reading, and writing Elf and Fae. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from any language.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Fae Magic: You know one cantrip from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list, in addition you may also cast Detect Evil and Good. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list and at 5th level you know one 2nd Level from the same spell list. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spell casting ability for it.

Trance: Elves do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Changing of the Seasons: When you finish a long rest, you can change your season. You might choose the season that is present in the world or perhaps the season that closely matches your current emotional state.

Fae Step: As a bonus action, you can magically teleport 30 feet to an unoccupied space you can see. Once you use this trait, you cannot do so again until you finish a short or long rest.

When you reach 3rd level, your Fae Step gains an additional effect based on your season: if the effect requires a saving throw, the DC = 8 + your Proficiency bonus + your Charisma modifier.

Autumn. Immediately after you use your Fae Step, up to two creatures of your choice that you can see within 10 feet of you must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for 1 minute, or until you or your companion deal any damage to it.

Winter. When you use your Fae Step, one creature of your choice that you can see within 5 feet of you before you teleport must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be frightened of you until the end of your next turn.

Spring. When you use your Fae Step, you can touch one willing creature within 5 feet of you. That creature then teleports instead of you, appearing in an unoccupied space of your choice that you can see within 30 feet of you.

Summer. Immediately after you use your Fae Step, each creature of your choice that you can see within 5 feet of you takes fire damage equal to your Charisma modifier (minimum of 1 damage).

Faerie

Standing barely 2 feet tall, the Faerie represents various 'lesser' Faerie types, meaning they do not belong to the nobility – the Sidhe. Faeries do have wings; if they are of the Seelie Court, they have butterfly, dragonfly, or bird like wings and if they belong to the Unseelie Court they have Bat, Insect, or Bird like wings. Curious as cats and shy as deer, a Faerie goes where they please. They enjoy spying on other creatures and can barely contain their excitement around them, either for benevolent or fell reasons. A Faerie's skin, hair, and eye color is anything imaginable - natural or unnatural.

Faerie Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 4" + 2d12   | + Con Mod       | 0.5(Hgt) + 2d10 | +1(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 3" + 2d12   | + Con Mod       | 0.5(Hgt) + 2d10 | +1(Str Mod)     |

Faerie Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Faerie physically matures at the same rate as humans; however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience (some wonder if they ever reach maturity). A Fae typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100. For intents and purpose are immortal; however, they can die due to disease or being killed. For purposes of game play Fae are considered Tiny (< 2 ft) or Small (>2 feet < 4feet) and move at a speed of 10 feet while walking. Fae can fly at a speed of 30 feet. Fae cannot fly in heavy armor.

Alignment: A Faerie typically holds themselves apart from mere mortals; however, they divide themselves into two factions: The Seelie Court that lean towards chaos and good/neutral and the Unseelie Court which aligns itself with chaos and evil/neutral.

Languages: Faeries start out speaking, reading, and writing Faerie and either Ananthean, Arcadian, or Aislandtic depending on their origin. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Ananthean, Arcadian, Dwarf, Elf, Giant, Celestial, Infernal, Abyssal, Primordial, Draconic, and/or Druidic.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Fae Magic: You know one cantrip from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list, in addition you may also cast Detect Evil and Good. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level from the same spell list. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spell casting ability for them.

Fae Vulnerability: Fae are vulnerable to cold iron. It burns to touch (1d4 for each round) and they take double damage if a weapon made of cold iron hits them.

Trance: Fae do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Gnomes

Gnomes trace their lineage back to the mysterious Faewyld, a place where colors are brighter, the wildlands wilder, and emotions are more primal. Unknown forces drove ancient gnomes from that realm longer, forcing them to seek refuge in this world – much like their Fae cousins. Despite their size with regard to other Fae, they are still quite small, averaging 3 feet in height. There are two playable gnome races: the forest gnomes and Svirfneblin.

Forest Gnomes have skin colors that range from earthy browns to floral pink, hair colors that vibrant colors- fiery orange like Autumn leaves, verdant greens like a forest in Spring, or deep reds and purples of wildflowers in bloom. With equally vibrant eye colors. Forest Gnomes possess highly mutable facial characteristics, and many have overly large mouths and eyes, an effect which can be both disturbing and stunning depending on the individual.

Svirfneblin live far below the surface world, they survive by virtue of their stealth, cleverness, and tenacity. They have stone gray skin allowing them to blend in with surrounding stonework. They are surprisingly strong and heavy for their size. Male Svirfneblin are bald, while females have stringy gray hair. Traditionally, females run their secret tunnel laden enclaves while males scour the outskirts in search of enemies and deposits of precious gemstones, which they cherish.

Gnome Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight   | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 28" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 1(Hgt) + 2d20 | +1(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 25" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 1(Hgt) + 2d20 | +1(Str Mod)     |

* Svirfneblin use a weight multiplier of 3, instead of 1 and a weight modifier of +2(Str Mod).

Forest Gnome Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Gnomes physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, they consider coming of age to be around 40 years old. Gnomes can live to see around 500 years of age. For purposes of game play Gnomes are considered Small and move at a speed of 25 feet while walking.

Alignment: As a member of the Fae, Gnomes also divide themselves into two factions: The Seelie Court that lean towards chaos and good/neutral and the Unseelie Court which aligns itself with chaos and evil/neutral.

Languages: Gnomes start out speaking, reading, and writing Fae, and Ananthean. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Arcadian, Dwarf, Elf, Giant, Draconic, and/or Orc.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Gnome Resilience: You have an advantage on all Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma saving throws against magic.

Gnome Combat Training: You have advantage to your attack rolls when fighting goblinoids, and giantkin. In addition, giantkin are at a disadvantage to their attack rolls when fighting you.

Speak with Small Beasts: Through sounds and gestures, you can communicate simple ideas with small or smaller beasts. Forest Gnomes love animals and often keep squirrels, badgers, rabbits, moles, woodpeckers, and other small creatures as beloved pets.

Gnome Magic: Gnomes have a natural affinity to illusion. You know the cantrip minor illusion. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level spell from the Illusion school of magic. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Intelligence is your spell casting ability for them.

Deep Gnome (Svirfneblin) Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Svirfneblins physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, they consider coming of age to be around 25 years old. Svirfneblin can live to see around 250 years of age. For purposes of game play Svirfneblins are considered Small and move at a speed of 25 feet while walking.

Alignment: Even though Svirfneblins are members of the Fae, they typically do not align themselves with either the Seelie or Unseelie court. They tend to align more with Earth Elementals and neutrality.

Languages: Svirfneblin start out speaking, reading, and writing Underdark Trade, Fae, and Aislandtic. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Primordial (terran), Giant, Draconic, Urge, and/or Orc.

Superior Darkvision: accustomed to underground life, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 120 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Stone Camouflage: Svirfneblin have advantage on Dexterity (Stealth) checks made to hide in rocky terrain.

Gnome Resilience: You have an advantage on all Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma saving throws against magic.

Sunlight Sensitivity: Svirfneblin have disadvantage on attack rolls and Wisdom (perception) checks that rely on sight when you, the target of your attack, or whatever you are trying to perceive is in direct sunlight.

Gnome Magic: Gnomes have a natural affinity to illusion. You know the cantrip minor illusion. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level spell from the Illusion school of magic. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Intelligence is your spell casting ability for them.

Svirfneblin Magic: At 3rd level you can cast blindness/Deafness once, you regain the spell after a long rest. At 5th level you can cast nondetection on yourself at will. Intelligence is the ability casting these spells.

Goblin

Goblins are small, often black-hearted, selfish fae of the winter court. They often lair in caves, mines, despoiled dungeons, despoiled dungeons, cosmopolitan cities, and other dismal settings. Individually weak, goblins often gather in large numbers for safety and strength.

Goblins belong to a family of creatures called goblinoids. Their larger cousins, hobgoblins, and bugbears, often like to bully goblins into submission. Goblins tend to be lazy and undisciplined, making them poor servants, laborers, and guards.

Goblins have an affinity for rats and wolves, raising them to serve as companions and mounts, respectively. Like rats, goblins tend to shun sunlight and sleep underground during the day. Like wolves, they are pack hunters, made bolder in the presence of allies.

Sometimes driven by wild mood swings, goblins have an inclination toward destruction, which can take a playful form but is often anything but. Some goblins clobber things, others like to light things on fire, and others love to blow things up.

Goblins have an outrageous sense of humor, usually expressed through mischievous pranks. The malicious among them find pleasure in the misfortune of others and tend to cackle maniacally whenever they are amused. They can act with apparent randomness, sometimes just to confuse and befuddle others.

Standing around 3 feet tall and covered in bumpy green to red skin, goblins tend to have large noses (often pointy) and large pointy ears. Their wiry bodies are surprisingly strong, and their mouths are full of sharp crooked teeth.

Most goblins are bald, either by heredity or by choice, but a few boast shocks of red or black hair. Their arms and legs are elongated in proportion to their small body, and their fingers and toes are long and slender. Many goblins prefer to go unshod to leave their toes exposed for climbing.

Goblin Height & Weight

|               | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 34" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 0.9(Hgt) + 2d20 | +1(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 32" + 2d6   | + Con Mod       | 0.9(Hgt) + 2d20 | +1(Str Mod)     |

Goblin Traits

Ability Score Increase: Your Dexterity score increases by +2. In addition, you may increase your Constitution score by +1.

Age, Size, & Speed: Goblins physically mature faster than humans, reaching adulthood at the age of 8. The most cautious goblins may live to see 60 years of age. For purposes of game play goblins are considered Small and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Most of the goblins in Amantia have a chaotic and slightly evil inclination; however, they may be of any alignment.

Languages: Goblins start out speaking, reading, and writing Goblin and Fae. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Arcadian, Ananthean, Dwarf, Elf, Gnome, Giant, and/or Draconic.

Darkvision: You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Nimble Escape: You can take the Disengage or Hide action as a bonus action on each of your turns.

Goblin Magic: Goblins have a natural affinity to evocation magic. You know the cantrip fire bolt. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level spell from the evocation school of magic. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Intelligence is your spell casting ability for them.

Sidhe

Whilst very little is known of the Sidhe history, it is known that before man or even elves walked the earth, in the time of the primordials, the Sidhe Lords claimed dominion. It was a time of wild creation and a constant battle for survival and supremacy. As the humans, dwarves and lesser races gained power, threatening the delicate power balance of the Seelie and Unseelie Queens, the Sidhe separated their realm from the mortal, material plane forming what we know now as the Faewyld.

Sidhe society is a complicated hierarchy divided into two main factions: The Seelie court and the Unseelie Court. All fey beings belong to one of these factions and are often born into it, but their allegiance can change if the lord they owe fealty to changes. In rare instances, fey creatures (little folk mostly) might offer a pledge of fealty to a powerful mortal who has done them a service. If that mortal should accept a mantle of power from one of the Queens, the nature of any who followed can change.

Sidhe are beautiful beyond belief, often literally, and many of them use this beauty to charm or terrorize the common folk. The noble Sidhe are the tallest of the Fae folk often reaching close to 7 feet tall. They are almost always slender and graceful, much like elves. Their hair, eye and skin color typically reflect their Court alliance, with Unseelie Sidhe having pale white, blue or even black skin, black or blue eyes and hair in every conceivable shade of blue, white or purple. Seelie Sidhe have a warmer appearance: their skin is usually tan, bronze, or pale green; their eyes shades of green; and their hair is often blonde, green or red. Sidhe can run may often have irises that look like cat or serpent eyes, or hair that is leafy or made of fine vines depending on their nature.

Sidhe Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 68" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | + 5(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 64" + 2d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |

Sidhe Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Sidhe physically mature at the same rate as humans; however: however, their understanding of adulthood goes beyond physical growth to encompass worldly experience. A sidhe typically claims adulthood and an adult name around the age of 100. For intents and purpose are immortal; however, than can die due to disease or being killed. For purposes of game play elves are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking. Fey do have wings, if they are of the Seelie Court, they have butterfly, dragonfly, or bird like wings and if they belong to the Unseelie Court they have Bat, Insect, or Bird like wings. Either way they can fly at a speed of 60 feet. They cannot fly in heavy armor.

Alignment: Sidhe typically hold themselves apart from mere mortals; however, they divide themselves into two factions: The Seelie Court that lean towards chaos and good/neutral and the Unseelie Court which aligns itself with chaos and evil/neutral.

Languages: Sidhe start out speaking, reading, and writing Fae and either Ananthean, Arcadian, or Aislandtic depending on their origin. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Ananthean, Arcadian, Dwarf, Elf, Orc, Urge, Giant, Draconic, Druidic, Celestial, Infernal, Abyssal, and/or Primordial.

Darkvision: accustomed to twilight lit forests and the night sky, you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Keen Senses: You have proficiency with the Perception skill.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Fae Magic: You know one cantrip from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list, in addition you may also cast Detect Evil and Good. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell from the Ranger, Druid, Bard, Sorcerer or Warlock spell list and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level from the same spell list. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spell casting ability for them.

Fae Vulnerability: Fae are vulnerable to cold iron. It burns to touch (1d4 for each round) and they take double damage if a weapon made of cold iron hits them.

Trance: Sidhe do not need to sleep. Instead, they meditate deeply, remaining semiconscious, for 4 hours a day. While meditating, you can dream after a fashion; such dreams are actually mental exercises that have become reflexive through years of practice. After resting in this way in this way, you gain the same benefit that a human does from 8 hours of sleep.

Extra Language: You can speak, read, and write one extra language from the list for Sidhe.

Giant-kin

The saga of giantkind began near the dawn of the world. Elves had yet to set their dainty feet out of the Faewyld when the thunder of the giants' steps shook the world to its bones, and even the dragons and fae were yet unaware of the power and glory they would attain. The record of the that early age had nearly vanished into the mists of legend by the time humankind came onto the scene. Now, not even the giants know the full truth of their beginnings.

All the giants and their kin know for certain is that they are sibling races. Humanoids such elves, humans, and dwarves are more similar in size and shape than the disparate giant types are to one another, but those races have no shared heritage. In contrast, every true giant, regardless of type, can trace its ancestry directly to Ymir the All-Mother. Most giants believe that Anman took a number of mates accounting for the variety in appearance and abilities among the types of giantkind.

Giants and giant-kin rank among the world's most fearsome creatures, literally towering over the other, younger beings that crowd Amantia. Yet nowadays most giants live in isolation or in obscure locations, exhibiting none of the collected grandeur and power of their forebears.

Firbolg

---

Firbolgs tribes cloister in remote forest strongholds of Prydain, the Wild Lands, the Green Star Islands, The Great Kingdom, Tu Anatha, and Gallia. Firbolgs prefer to spend their days in harmony with the woods. However, when provoked firbolgs demonstrate formidable skill with weapon and druid magic.

Firbolgs love nothing more than a peaceful day spent among the trees of an old forest. They see forests as sacred places, representing the heart of the world and monuments to the durability of life.

In their role as caretakers, firbolgs live off the land while striving to remain in balance with nature. Their methods reflect common sense and remarkable resourcefulness. During a bountiful summer, they store away excess nuts, fruit, and berries. When winter arrives, they scatter everything they can spare to ensure the animals of the wood survive until springtime.

In a firbolg's eyes, there is no greater fault than greed. The firbolgs believe that the world remains healthiest when each creature takes what it needs. Material goods, especially precious gems and gold, have little appeal to them. What use are such things when winter lingers, and food runs short?

Firbolgs have a natural talent for druidic magic. Their cultural reverence for nature, combined with their strong and insightful minds, makes learning such magic an instinctive part of their development. Almost every firbolg learns a few spells, typically those used to mask their presence, and many go on to master nature magic.

As guardians of the wood, few firbolgs would dream of leaving their homes or fit into human society. An exiled firbolg or one whose clan has been destroyed, might not have a choice in the matter. Most adventuring firbolgs fall into this latter category.

Outcast firbolgs can never return home. They committed some unforgivable deed, usually something that put their homeland at risk, such as starting a forest fire or killing a rare or beautiful wild creature. These firbolgs are loners who wander the world in hope of finding a new place to call home.

Orphaned firbolgs are those whose clans or homelands have been destroyed. They become crusaders for nature, seeking to avenge their loss and prevent the further destruction of the natural world.

A few rare firbolgs are entrusted by their clan with an important mission that takes them beyond their homes. These firbolgs feel like pilgrims in a strange land, and usually wish only to complete their quests and return home as quickly as possible.

Use the Firbolg Adventurers table if you are having trouble starting your characters backstory.

Firbolg Adventurers

| d8 | Reason for Adventuring                       |
|----|----------------------------------------------|
| 1  | Outcast for murder                           |
| 2  | Outcast for severely damaging home territory |
| 3  | Clan slain by invading humanoids             |
| 4  | Clan slain by a dragon or demon              |
| 5  | Separated from tribe and lost                |
| 6  | Homeland destroyed by a natural disaster     |
| 7  | Personal quest ordained by omens             |
| 8  | Dispatched on a quest by tribe leader        |

Firbolg Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight      | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|------------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 74" +2d10   | + Con Mod       | 1.6(Hgt) + 10d20 | + 10(Str Mod)   |
| Female | 68" +2d10   | + Con Mod       | 1.6(Hgt) + 10d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

Firbolg Traits

A firbolg has the following racial traits.

Age, Size, Speed: As giant-kin related to the fae, firbolgs have long lifespans. A firbolg reaches adulthood around 30, and the oldest of them can live for 500 years. Firbolg are between 7 and 8 feet tall and weigh between 240 – 300 pounds. They are Medium sized creatures with a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: As people who follow the rhythm of nature and see themselves as its caretakers, firbolg are typically neutral good. Evil firbolg are rare and are usually sworn enemies of the rest of their kind.

Firbolg Magic: You can cast detect magic and disguise self with this trait, using Wisdom as your spellcasting ability for them. Once you cast either spell, you cannot cast it again with this trait until you finish a short or long rest. When you use this version of disguise self, you can seem up to 3 feet shorter than normal, allowing you to more easily blend in with humans and elves.

Hidden Step: As a bonus action, you can magically turn invisible until the start of your next turn or until you attack, make a damage roll, or force someone to make a saving throw. Once you use this trait, you cannot use it again until you finish a short or long rest.

Powerful Build: You count as one size larger when determining your carrying capacity and the weight you can push, drag, or lift.

Speech of Beast and Leaf: You have the ability to communicate in a limited manner with beasts and plants. They can understand the meaning of your words, though you have no special ability to understand them in return. You have advantage on all Charisma checks you make to influence them.

Languages: A firbolg speaks Giant and Elvish. If you have the ability to learn additional languages due to Intelligence, you may learn the following: Arcadian, Ananthean, Aislandtic, Fae, Orc, Dwarf, and Draconic.

Gith

Long millenia ago, the Gith thrived on the only world they had ever known. Theirs was an orderly, peaceable society, and all Gith were capable of astounding mental feats given their strongly psionic physiology. The Gith channeled their powers into creating wondrous works of art, philosophy, music, and literature. In short, they led a wholly idyllic existence. Idyllic, that is, until the day a vast nautiloid fleet appeared in their heavens...

On that fateful day when their nautiloids appeared over the Gith homeworld, the mind flayers (also known as Illithids), were the most powerful race in the Inner Planes. They ruled from strongholds on the Astral and Ethereal planes, and their empire spanned an untold number of worlds whose indigenous populations they enslaved or consumed (by eating their brains). As inevitably followed from mind flayer contact with most populations, the Gith too became one of the Illithids' enslaved races.

Typically, the Elder Brains of Illithid hives suppressed Gith psionics or outright slew those who became too powerful. However, this approach was not used in all cases. One particular Elder Brain of singular cunning, or hubris, decided that Gith minds were a resource too valuable to destroy. They had tens of thousands of Gith transported to Amantia. Confident the prisoners could be kept subdued through its own substantial power and the colony's psionic forcefields, the Brain regularly summoned the Gith's elder representative to private meetings in which he probed the Gith's mind. This representative was Rizaian, a venerable Gith of astonishing mental prowess, whom the Gith called Adlishar, meaning "first among many." One day, however, the Elder Brain grew lax, or perhaps Adlishar Rizaian had merely been biding his time as he himself studied his inquisitor. On that day, Rizaian broke free from the brain's control and released a massive psionic shockwave.

The Elder Brain descended briefly into madness before dying in a synaptic explosion that sent out a discharge of psychic energy so great it simultaneously killed every Illithid in the colony, each of whom had been linked to the brain's thoughts. Unfortunately, the discharge also 'killed' Rizaian, but some combination of his own substantial will and sense of unfinished business, the shockwaves of psychic energy, and the arcane influence of the Illithid technology contrived to trap Rizaian's ki in the Material Plane. The gith leader had been transformed into a Lich, becoming the Gith's Lich king and quite mad.

Rizaian led his people to the surface of this alien world, springing up from the warrens in the middle of the Arcadian Empire in the height of its expansion. The resulting conflict has contained the Gith to the region of the Theocracy of Gith, but at the expense of the once mighty Arcadian Empire, which was sundered. Rizaian is now a jealous and paranoid God-king, that suppresses any Gith that can challenge his rule, much like the Elder Brains before him. Those that become too powerful are sacrificed in the name of Rizaian.

Some Gith do manage to escape Rizaian's oppressive rule and become mercenaries, adventurers, or artisans. Those that do escape are no longer under the suppression of the Rizaian. The Gith separated along ideological fronts as follows of two of Rizaian's lieutenants: Yanki and Zerai, becoming Githyanki and Githzerai.

Physically Gith are about the height of humans, but they are gaunt to the point of almost looking skeletal. Their skin is a rough, leathery pale yellow with occasional greenish to brownish tones. They have patterns of brown spots on their skin, that is unique to the individual. They have long, angular skulls, with deep-set black colored eyes, flattened noses with slit shaped nostrils, long pointed ears, and pointed teeth. Common Gith hair colors are black or red, but sometimes you can find Gith with gray or russet-colored hair.

Gith Height & Weight

|               | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 55" + 3d10  | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 4d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |
| Female | 49" + 3d10  | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 4d20 | +5(Str Mod)     |

Githyanki

Githyanki are generally cruel, self-centered, arrogant and aggressive. They have a great xenophobic pride and a disdain for every other race which they deem inferior... which also happens to be every single race in existence. They tend to never acknowledge any value in other cultures and people seeing them as potential slaves or plunder bags. This is why they only speak the language of their race, Gith, and no other language. Their tendency toward unbridled aggressiveness is kept in check by their fierce loyalty to their Lich-king.

Githyanki grow incredibly bored and become decadent novelty hunters. They hop from one thrill to the next leaving a trail of unfinished undertakings in their wake; only taking up new interests because they look new, and then giving up shortly after because they do not have any personal interest to see it through or they have found something else that looks new. A very clear instance of this habit is their tendency to attach trinkets and trophies on their armor from their conquests as keepsakes making the typical Githyanki gear adorned with them most ostentatious jewelry, precious stones, feathers and metals.

In the uprising against the Illithids, Rizaian sought allies. His lieutenant Yanki appealed to Tiamat, the goddess of Evil Dragonkind, and Rizaian ventured into the Nine Hells to meet with her. Only Tiamat knows what passed between them, but Tanki returned to Amantia with the Dragon Queen's red dragon consort Ephelomon, who proclaimed that his kind would forever act as allies to the Githyanki. Not all red dragons honor this alliance kindled so long ago, but most at least will not roast them on sight.

Githyanki Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Githyanki reach adulthood in their late teens and live a decade or two past a century. For purposes of game play Githyanki are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Githyanki tend towards Lawful and Evil. They are aggressive and arrogant.

Languages: Githyanki start out speaking, reading, and writing Urge and Arcadian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Draconic, Underdark Trade, Infernal, Abyssal, Aislandtic, Ananthean, Gnoll, Giant, and/or Fae.

Martial Prodigy: You are proficient with Light and Medium Armor, in addition to the shortsword, longsword, and greatsword.

Red Dragon Pact: Githyanki characters have advantage on any Persuasion (Wisdom) skill checks against Red Dragons.

Gith Psionics: You know the mage hand cantrip, and the hand is invisible when you cast the cantrip with this trait. When you reach 3rd level, you can cast the jump spell and the misty step at 5th level. You cast each spell once with this trait and regain the ability when you finish a long rest. Intelligence is spell casting ability for these spells.

Decadent Mastery: You can speak, read, and write one extra language from the list for Githyanki, and are proficient with one skill or tool of your choice.

Githzerai

After their ascension to the surface world, the Githzerai leader, Zerai, turned their backs against the ways of the war-obsessed Githyanki, Githzerai denounce war-like pursuits and devote themselves to strict monastic lifestyles. Following the ways of Zerai, the Githzerai are philosophers who pursue self-knowledge in the face of adversity. Using their psionic abilities and strong wills, they have constructed fortresses and monasteries in the Theocracy of Gith where they live, study and introspect, completely removed from the matters of other worlds, cultures and peoples.

The Githzerai however, are not completely uninterested in the world. They still keep tabs on their enemies – the Illithids and other Urge races – and make effort to complete their mission to destroy every effort to rebuild the Illithid Empire.

Githzerai are introspective, disciplined, naturally pragmatic and extremely stoic. They live simple lives and dress likewise, wearing very light clothing with little or no adornments. They greatly value individual independence and, after rigorous pursuit of self-knowledge, have developed great knowledge of their own strengths and prefer to rely on their own strength and counsel. They tend to be distrusting of most races and can be very paranoid, but it is not impossible to gain their trust.

Githzerai Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Githzerai reach adulthood in their late teens and live two or three decades past a century. For purposes of game play Githzerai are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Githzerai tend towards Lawful, and Neutral. Their monastic lifestyles and psionic abilities lead to implacable mental discipline.

Languages: Githzerai start out speaking, reading, and writing Urge and Arcadian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Draconic, Underdark Trade, Infernal, Abyssal, Aislandtic, Ananthean, Gnoll, Giant, and/or Fae.

Mental Discipline: You have advantage on saving throws against the charmed and frightened condition.

Gith Psionics: You know the mage hand cantrip, and the hand is invisible when you cast the cantrip with this trait. When you reach 3rd level, you can cast the shield spell and the detect thoughts at 5th level. You cast each spell once with this trait and regain the ability when you finish a long rest. Intelligence is spell casting ability for these spells.

Half-Humans

Not a race on their own they are the result of a union between a human and another race, such as Elves, Hobgoblins, or Orcs. Other such unions are possible; however, those are the most common and the ones detailed in this guide.

Half-Elves

An elf who looks upon a half-elf sees a human, and a human who beholds the same person sees an elf. Though this characterization is simplistic, it gets to the heart of what it means to be half-elf in Amantia. For most folk in Amantia, the issue is not so cut and dried. Half-elves are generally tolerated, if not accepted, wherever they go or take up residence – with the proviso that a society that does not look kindly on elves (such as the Black March in the Holy Rose Empire) or humans (such as Vanaheim) is likely to feel the same way towards half-elves.

Half-elves are a diverse lot, given the number of combinations of elf subraces and human ethnicities in their ranks. Most of them consider their dual nature a blessing more than a disadvantage, because it gives them a set of capabilities and a perspective on the world that full-blooded humans and elves cannot hope to match.

Not surprisingly, half-elves enjoy the company of other of their kind, such as where half-elves congregate, they are likely joined by others. Most of the half-elves in Amantia are of Fae Elf heritage mixed with Ananthean or Aislandtic human blood. In other parts of the world, both Vanir and Nifl half-elves have mixed with Aislandtic humans, Wald elves have mixed with Roselanders, and in Tawys, Nifl half-elves have mixed with the local humans. Needless to say, half-elves take on a variety of characteristics depending on their parental stock.

Half-Elf Height & Weight

|               | Base Height                                                        | Height Modifier | Base Weight | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------------|
| Male   | Average the height and weight of the human culture and elf subrace |                 |             |                 |
| Female | Average the height and weight of the human culture and elf subrace |                 |             |                 |

Half-Elf Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: half-elves mature at the same rate as humans and reach adulthood around the age of 20 and they live longer than their human parents, reaching close to two centuries old. For purposes of game play half-elves are considered Medium size and walk at a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: Half-elves share a lot of their elvish ancestral chaotic leanings. They value both personal freedom, creative expression, restrictive rules, authority, and can be unpredictable.

Languages: Half-elves start out speaking, reading, and writing Elf and the language of the human parent's culture. If the character can learn more languages, then they may choose from the cultural list from where they were raised, i.e., the elf subrace or the human culture.

Darkvision: Thanks to your elven heritage you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Skill Versatility: You gain proficiency in two skills of your choice.

Half-Hobgoblin

Hobgoblins are the larger Fae cousins to goblins. They seemed to have lost some of their access to the Reverie that makes most Fae chaotic. Indeed, Hobgoblins are more into authority, hierarchy, and military discipline. They are often times found as mercenaries in many authoritarian regimes. This trait seems to be passed on to their Half-human progeny.

Half-hobgoblins try to fit into whichever society they live in. Their eagerness to conform often results in an over-the-top scramble to be as 'honorable' as a pure Hobgoblin, or as resourceful as a human. Half-hobgoblins living among Hobgoblins often end up as social martyrs, taking on every burden imaginable so that their peers consider them honorable. Those in a human society are curious, eager to try new things and new ways of doing old things, even if the new way is clearly no better than the old way.

Hobgoblins look like bulky humans, with square features, large hands, and strong shoulders. Their skin is reddish, similar to the ki Folk tribes of the Warrior's Plain. They tend to dress in an awkward combination of utilitarian clothing and elaborate jewelry. They may have amber or orange eyes, but red or brown eyes can be seen as well. Their hair is typically black or dark brown, with highlights ranging from blues, greens, and purples.

Half-Hobgoblin Height & Weight

|               | Base Height                                                             | Height Modifier | Base Weight | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------------|
| Male   | Use the human culture stats, +3 inches and multiply final weight by 1.1 |                 |             |                 |
| Female | Use the human culture stats, +3 inches and multiply final weight by 1.1 |                 |             |                 |

Half-Hobgoblin Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Half-hobgoblins mature at the same rate as humans and reach adulthood around the age of 20 and they live longer than their human parents, reaching close to two centuries old. For purposes of game play half-hobgoblins are considered Medium size and walk at a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: Half-hobgoblins share a lot of their hobgoblin's ancestral leanings for martial discipline and therefor tend towards law and are rarely good. They value both personal discipline, honor, authority, rules (but may be bent), and can be quite predictable.

Languages: Half-hobgoblins start out speaking, reading, and writing Fae and the language of the human parent's culture. If the character can learn more languages, then they may choose from the human parent cultural list.

Darkvision: Thanks to your hobgoblin heritage you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Fae Ancestry: You have advantage on saving throws against being charmed and magic cannot put you to sleep.

Martial Advantage: Once per turn you can deal an extra 1d6 damage to a creature you hit with a weapon attack if that creature is within 5 feet of an ally that is not incapacitated. The damage increases to 2d6 at 5th level and +1d6 every 5 levels after.

Hobgoblin Weapon Training: You have proficiency with the Longsword and Malakbar

Beast Trainer: When training animals, half-hobgoblins are naturals and can take advantage on animal handling skill checks.

Half-Orc

Half-orcs have existed in the world since when orcs and humans first made contact. Yet, in all that time, they have found few places for themselves in Amantian civilization – or perhaps more accurately, civilization has never made room for them.

Most of the common folk have an aversion to Half-orcs based largely on their appearance: anyone who looks that much like an orc, they reason, must be like an orc and should be kept at a distance. Because Half-orcs are typically stronger and harder than their Human peers, they kind find employment in town and cities, but their appearance marks them as outsiders. In response to being ostracized, half-orcs either embrace their otherness and take pride in their physical superiority, pull back and try not to draw attention to themselves, or give up trying to fit in anywhere and adopt a nomadic lifestyle.

Half-orcs have skin pigmentation that is grayish, slopping foreheads, jutting jaws, prominent teeth, and towering builds. This appearance makes their orcish heritage plain for all to see. Half-orcs stand between 5 and 7 feet tall and usually weight between 180 and 250 pounds. Half-orcs regard battle scars as tokens of pride and ornamental scars as things of beauty. They usually have black or brown hair. Their eyes can range that of their human parent, but usually has red specks in the iris.

Half-Orc Height & Weight

|      | Base Height                                                             | Height Modifier | Base Weight | Weight Modifier |
|------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------------|
| Male | Use the human culture stats, +2 inches and multiply final weight by 1.1 |                 |             |                 |

|        |                                                                         |
|--------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|        | by 1.1                                                                  |
| Female | Use the human culture stats, +2 inches and multiply final weight by 1.1 |

Half-Orc Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Half-orcs mature a little faster than humans, reaching adulthood by the age of 14 and rarely reach their 75th birthday. For purposes of game play half-hobgoblins are considered Medium size and walk at a speed of 30 feet.

Alignment: Half-orcs share a lot of their orc's ancestral leanings for wanton destruction and tend towards chaos and are rarely good. Half-orcs raised amongst orcs are often evil themselves.

Languages: Half-orcs start out speaking, reading, and writing Orc and the language of the human parent's culture. If the character can learn more languages and are raised amongst humans, then they may choose from the human parent cultural list. If they are raised amongst Orcs they can learn from the following list: Giant, Fae, Ananthean, and/or Aislandic

Darkvision: Thanks to your hobgoblin heritage you have superior vision in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Menacing You gain proficiency in the Intimidation skill.

Relentless Endurance: When you are reduced to 0 hit points but not killed outright, you can drop to 1 hit point instead. You cannot use this feature again until you have finished a long rest.

Orc Weapon Training: You have proficiency with the Great Axe and Orc Double Axe.

Savage Attacks: When you score a critical hit with a melee weapon attack, you can roll one of the weapons damage dice one additional time and add it to the extra damage of the critical hit.

Humans

Humans are relative newcomers to Amantia as far as races are concerned. The Human written historical record only dates back some six thousand years – While creatures such as Dragons, Fae, Urge beings, and Primordial creatures have been on Amantia for tens of thousands of years and races such as Elves, Giants, Dwarves have a historical record going back thirty thousand years.

Humans now dwell in every corner of Amantia and the most pervasive of the races and in most places are most populace race, while the once proud earlier races are either holding their own or are in decline. Their culture and societal make up runs the gamut, from the cosmopolitan folk who reside in great cities such as Olympia, Avignon, Kerma, Rosegarten, or Al'Aqabah to the barbarians who rage throughout the frontiers.

Humans are famous for their adaptability. No other race lies in so many diverse lands or environments from lush jungles to burning deserts to the fertile shores along rivers and seas. Humans find ways to survive and thrive almost anywhere. In locations where elves and dwarves have withdrawn, humans often move in and build a new alongside or on top of an earlier community.

It follows, then, that the most common feature of humans is their lack of commonality. Their diversity has enabled human civilization to grow faster than those of other races, making humans one the dominant races in much of the world today. It has also led to conflicts between human communities of humans because their culture and political differences. If not for their penchant for infighting, humans would be even more populous and predominant than they already are.

As a character all humans have the base human traits, in addition they have cultural traits and subcultural traits.

Human Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Humans reach adulthood in their late teens and live a bit shy of a century. For purposes of game play Humans are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Humans tend toward no particular alignment, although they may take on an alignment particular to their subculture and/or deity.

Culture and Subculture: Humans traditionally break themselves into several large generic cultures, each which may have several subcultures. Humans may gain additional traits depending on their subculture.

Aislander

The Aislandtic culture originated along the coasts and fjords in the island of Aislandt. northwest part of the Arcadian Continent adjacent the Aesirheim Mountains. Living close to the sea and with little land to farm, it is no wonder they took to the seas for exploration of new lands for resources whether they were inhabited or not. Over the centuries they expanded east over the seas to settle the northwest part of the Arcadian Continent adjacent the Aesirheim Mountains and later all the way inland to Molruss. To the west they found the Continent of the Rose Knight and other islands. They found these lands has already been settled by the Anantheans, some of which they conquered, while others were able to repel their assaults. The lasting legacy of the Aislanders is the Holy Empire of the Rose, which is the mightiest nation in these times.

Today, the Aislandtic culture from Molruss, the northern nations of the Arcadian Continent, the island nation of Aislandt, and the Holy Rose Empire. The sub-cultures are: Aislandtic which can be found in the nations of Aislandt, Valdtlandt, and Vinlandt; Roselander, which hail from the Holy Rose Empire and can be mixed with a good amount of Ananthean blood; Molruss, a Magocracy located on the east side of the Arcadian Continent, they may have some Il'Iktar and/or Arcadian blood; Suomi, a nation of rangers and druids on the north coast of the Arcadian Continent and have had interaction with the Il'Iktar Ice Tribes; and Ul'Iktar, a region of nomadic barbarians south of Molruss.

Most Aislandtic people are tall and can be imposing to other humans. They have fair skin prone to freckling in the sun. Their natural hair color tends to be blonde ranging from platinum to light brown, with the higher proportion of red-haired individuals than typically found in human populations. In some subculture, there me some influences from other human cultures. They typically have eye colors ranging from violet to light blue, green and hazel are also found frequently.

Aislandtic Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight   | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|---------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 57" + 3d10  | + Con Mod       | 2(Hgt) + 5d20 | +15(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 52" + 3d10  | + Con Mod       | 2(Hgt) + 5d20 | +15(Str Mod)    |

*You take the following modifiers for these subcultures' base height and base weight respectively: -3", +3d20 Roselander; -2", +4d10 Molruss & Ul'Iktar; and -1", +3d20 Suomi.

Aislander Cultural Traits

Languages: All Aislanders can read, write, and speak Aislandtic. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Ananthean, Arcadian, Orc, Fae, Elf, Giant, Dwarf, Il'Tuik, Celestial, and/or Draconic.

Al' Malik

When thinking of the Al'Malik one should envision Scheherazade's The Thousand Nights and a Night

(Tales of the Arabian Nights), full of corsairs, adventurers, rogues, sorcerers, Jinn, and other mythical beats. In the vast territory in which the Al'Malik make their home one can find a multitude of different types of deserts, but it is pretty much all deserts!!! The Al'Malik are known as great traders and have a reputation of driving a hard bargain. In fact, it is something of an insult to not haggle with a merchant.

Today, the Al'Malik culture ranges from the southern part of the Hoy Rose Empire, the Western shores of the Sikassan sub-continent, and the Northern deserts of the Al'Malik sub-continent. The sub-cultures: Al'Malik and Dune Riders reside in the northern deserts of the Al'Malik continent – the former of which desert barbarians the roam the dune seas; Orumai, a nation south of the Holy Empire of the Rose that was founded by the rebel Orumai Turk – they have been at war on and off with the Rose Empire and the borders change constantly; Varna, once a province of Orumai it is now a magocracy within the Holy Rose Empire. and Tawys – the Al'Malik who colonized the West Coast of Sikassa and a Dynasty of Pharaohs, which are now ruled by Nifl elves.

Shorter and slighter in build than most other humans, the Al'Malik have dusky brown skin, hair and eyes.

Al' Malik Height & Weight

* Those of the Tawys subculture gain +2" to their base height and a base weight multiplier of 2 instead of 1, due to their Sikassan bloodline.

Al' Malik Culture Traits

Languages: All Al' Malik can read, write, and speak Al'Malik. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Arcadian, Sikassan, Primordial, Gnoll, Urge, or Nesian.

Ananthean

The Ananthean culture is the oldest human civilization, in fact these peoples are often still very attuned to their environment and probably have distant Fae blood – this would explain their rise as the first human civilization. Their civilization first sprang up in the Green Star Islands and then expanded both west, east, and south. To the west they formed the early nations of the Holy Rose Empire, before the rise of the Rose Knight and the Aislandtic invasions. To the east they founded the nations of Tu Anatha and Gallia. To the South they founded the Islands of the Great kingdom. The invasions of the Aislandtic people and the expansion the Arcadian Empire halted their expansion and they do not claim as much territory as the once had.

The oldest and most pure Anantheans can be found on the Green Star Islands, and the Islands of the Great kingdom, each has their own subculture: Ananthean and kingdomers respectively. To the North of the Holy Rose Empire is the independent kingdom of the Highlanders of Prydain. Within the Holy Rose Empire, Anantheans were living there before the Aislanders came and Rose Knight ascended. These peoples have mixed with the Aislandtic to varying degrees to form the following subculture: Boehmians. On the Arcadian continent, the Tu Anantheans are relatively of pure blood, but may have some Aislandtic blood. Farther south you will find the nomadic Romani and Dalesmen – which have a mixture of Arcadian and Ananthean blood.

The archetypical Ananthean has raven black hair, deep blue eyes, pale skin, and if male stands 5'8" and weighs about 160 pounds (5'2" and 145 pounds if female). However, there is differentiation depending on admixture with other races, for instance one may find more blondes and red with green or hazel eyes if mixed with Aislandtic stock (Highlanders, Boehmian, and Tu Anantheans), if one has Arcadian heritage here hair color may be more brown or light brown with brown

|               | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 55" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 49" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

eyes (Romani and Dalesmen).

Ananthean Height & Weight

|               | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 56" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 6d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 50" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

* Highlanders add +2 to their base height and use a base weight multiplier of 2 instead of 1.5. Boehmians and Tu Anathans add +1 their base height.

Ananthean Culture Traits

Languages: All Anantheans can read, write, and speak Ananthean. Those Anantheans that hail from Maastricht, Boehmia, Ostlynn, or Prydain also know Aislandtic, while those from Chatoix, Gorislav, and Wallacia also know Arcadian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following:

Aislandtic, Arcadian, Orc, Fae, Elf, Giant, Dwarf, Il'Tuik, and/or Draconic.

Arcadian

While other human cultures may have expanded to include larger territories, the Arcadians lay claim to the largest human political unit – the Arcadian Empire. The Arcadian Empire once stretched to the Aesirheim Mountains in the North, South into Tawys and Sikassa, and west to Karpathos and the Island of the Great kingdom. While Arcadia is a shadow of its former self, the influences of the old empire are still felt in many countries today.

As a result, there are several subcultures of Arcadians. The Arcadians of today are settled primarily along the southwest coast of the Arcadian continent and are represented by the Republic of Arcadia. Along the coast to the east are two other subcultures: Aragonne – a current colonial power with colonies in the north of Sikassa and Lombardi – a region of city states where trade is the master. To the north you have the Avignon Empire, that encompasses the remnants of the northern provinces of the old Arcadian Empire, two Arcadian subcultures: Avignon and Le Provençal. While similar in appearance Avignon people are more cosmopolitan, while those of Le Provençal are, well, provincial.

The typical Arcadian has an olive complexion, with hair from light brown to black and their eyes are typically brown. There has been a lot of mixing with other human subcultures and a range of hair and eye colors can be seen depending on where they are from. Arcadians are of average human height and weight.

Arcadian Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 57" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 6d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 50" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

Arcadian Culture Traits

Languages: All Arcadians can read, write, and speak Arcadian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Al' Malik, Ananthean, Fae, Giant, Celestial, Urge, Sikassan, Gnoll

Il'Tuik

The Il'tuik are a culture found in the northern reaches, they reached Amantia by migrating over the ice sheets into the northeast portion of the Arcadian continent. Traditionally they have subsisted on fish, whales, and the bounty of the sea. They have not migrated very far into Amantia but have been influential – especially when the Korga hordes invade the lands to the south.

The two Il'tuik subcultures in Amantia are the Ice Tribes along the northern coast and pretty much live their lives as their ancestors had, and the Korga horse nomads who live in the northeastern steppes of the Amantia continent, north of Molruss. The Korga have mixed with Aislandtic people of the area and are fierce nomadic warriors living under petty warlords. Occasionally, a chieftain is able to unite the tribes and invade lands to south looting, pillaging, and terrorizing those peoples of the Dalelands, Molruss, or further south.

The Il'tuik are short, muscular, and generally have dark-yellowish complexion with round faces. They typically have brown or black hair and brown or black eyes.

Il'Tuik Height & Weight

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 57" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 6d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 52" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

Il'tuik Culture Traits

Languages: All Il'tuik can read, write, and speak Il'tuik. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Aislandtic, Orc, Giant, Dwarf.

Nesian

The sea people from the islands far to the west and south of the Al'Malik continent are the stock of the Nesians. They migrated to the southern shores of said continent. These peoples spread out, interbedding with the local Al'Malik peoples to form three distinct subcultures: The Devan – a merchant nation under the control of the Infernal Rakshasa Rajas; the ki Folk – are the peoples who roam the Warrior's Plain who invoke the powers of local totems; and the Zacatlan peoples that live adjacent to the Jaguar Tabaxi and are often ruled by the Yuan Ti snake folk – they are known for the great cities that surround massive Ziggurat where they worship their mysterious and often brutal gods.

Nesian Height & Weight

Nesian Culture Traits

Languages: All Nesians can read, write, and speak Nesian. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Al' Malik, Tabaxi, Gnoll, Celestial, Draconic, Infernal, and/or Abyssal.

Sikassan

Originating on the from the northern ranges of the Great Shinning Plain of the Sikassan subcontinent (the Southeast Main Island), this is an ancient as well as diverse culture that has influence all way to the Caliph of the Al'Malik to the Southern Arcadian cultures.

Several subcultures are represented: The scholarly and arcane inclined Sikassans, the Militaristic Kadunans, The clever and mercantile people of the Jewel Coast, and the naturalistic clans of the peoples of the adder, python, and jackal.

Typically, Sikassans are tall and well-toned, dark of skin, hair, and eyes.

Sikassan Height & Weight

Sikassan Culture Traits

Languages: All Sikassans can read, write, and speak Sikassan. If the character can learn more languages they may choose from the following: Al' Malik, Arcadian, Draconic, Primordial, Tabaxi, Gnoll, and/or Wemic.

Planetouched

The planetouched are a category of mortal creatures, commonly of human or humanoid descent, whose bloodline includes extraplanar creatures such as celestials, fiends, or elemental creatures such as genies. The most common and best known planetouched are tieflings, aasimar, and genasi, who are humans descended from the evil, good, and elemental planes respectively. Numerous other planetouched are also known.

Many extraplanar beings can interbreed with humanoid races, or else use magic to assume a form which can do so. The resulting half-blooded offspring are exceptionally powerful creatures such as half-fiends (called also cambions), half-celestials, or half-elementals. The offspring of one of these half-blooded creatures and a normal humanoid is a planetouched.

The offspring of two planetouched is also a planetouched, who usually takes after one or other of

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 53" + 3d6   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 50" + 3d6   | + Con Mod       | 1.4(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

the parents, though they may carry the recessive bloodline of the other parent and pass that on to their children. The offspring of a planetouched and a normal humanoid has a roughly equal chance of being either a planetouched or a normal humanoid.

Some planetouched trace their ancestry back to a powerful individual who had a dalliance with an extraplanar being, such as a succubus or divine avatar. Such people may descend from the once noble bloodlines of forgotten kingdoms. Others have unpleasant origins, such as part of an evil empire's slave breeding program or the victims of attacks by demons.

The influence of an extraplanar bloodline can continue for several generations. The planetouched bloodline can also remain dormant for one or more generations, resurfacing to the surprise of a baby's parents.

They are generally rare, and usually do not exist in

|        | Base Height | Height Modifier | Base Weight     | Weight Modifier |
|--------|-------------|-----------------|-----------------|-----------------|
| Male   | 58" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 6d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |
| Female | 53" + 3d8   | + Con Mod       | 1.5(Hgt) + 5d20 | +10(Str Mod)    |

sufficient number to form their own kingdoms. They are generally found in cultures that interact with deities more directly, such Tawys, Ancient Arcadian, Aislandt, Al' Malik, etc.

Aasimar

The aasimar are a type of planetouched, descended from humans but with a trace of otherworldly holy ancestry.

Aasimar are rare and have no societies of their own. Instead, they live among other cultures and follow the traditions and practices of their hosts. They fit in best in upright, law-abiding cultures, where their strong moral instincts make them a boon to society rather a nuisance. Individual aasimar are highly likely to become paladins or clerics. They favor large, heavy weapons and polearms. A small but significant proportion of aasimar become arcane spellcasters in service to some noble cause.

In Amantia, Aasimar are more common in Tawys, Arcadia, The Aislandtic kingdoms, or The Holy Rose Empire, where they are the descendants of the avatars of deities or angels who settled in those regions. Aasimar closely resemble humans or half-elves. They are usually tall, beautiful, and charismatic. Some possess unique traits such as silvery hair or golden eyes that reveal their divine heritage. Most aasimar are descended from one of the humanlike nomadic eladrin of Arborea, the animal-like guardinals of Elysium, or the rare rilmani of the Outlands. An Aasimar's appearance and supernatural abilities often reflect their celestial ancestor. As a result of their heritage, aasimar are usually good, and evil aasimar are rare. A few aasimar are blessed with wings. Among the many rare traits observed among some aasimar include the ability to put animals at ease, silver skin, and doglike ears.

Aasimar Height & Weight

|        | Base Height                            | Height Modifier | Base Weight | Weight Modifier |
|--------|----------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------------|
| Male   | Use the base mortal stats, but add +2" |                 |             |                 |
| Female | Use the base mortal stats, but add +2" |                 |             |                 |

Aasimar Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Aasimar physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, they can live to reach 160 years old. Aasimar are considered Medium for game purposed and move at a speed of 30ft.

Alignment: Aasimar might not have an innate tendency toward good, but many of them are.

Languages: Aasimar start out speaking, reading, and writing Celestial and the native language of the region in which they were raised. If the character can learn more languages, they choose from the bonus language list of the region where they were raised.

Darkvision: Blessed with a radiant soul, you can see in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Celestial Resistance: You have resistance to necrotic and radiant damage.

Healing Hands: As an action, you can touch a creature and cause it to regain a number of hit points equal to your level. Once the trait is used, you cannot use it again until you finish a long rest.

Celestial Ancestry: You know one cantrip from Cleric spell list, in addition you may also cast Detect Evil and Good. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell from the Cleric spell list and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level from the same spell list. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spell casting ability for them.

Celestial Transformation: At 3rd level your character gains a transformation. All transformations are a bonus action and lasts 1 minute. You can fly at a speed of 30ft. You may not use the transformation again until you complete a long rest. The type of transformation depends on the Aasimar's alignment.

If you character is of good alignment, you gain the Radiant Soul transformation. You can use this action to release divine energy within you to cause your eyes to fill with bright light and two luminous, incorporeal wings sprout from your back. You can on each of your turns, deal extra radiant damage to one target when you deal damage with an attack or spell. The extra damage is equal to your character level.

If you character is of neutral (Chaotic Neutral, Lawful Neutral, or true Neutral) alignment you gain the Radiant Consumption transformation. You can use this action to release divine energy within you to cause searing light to pour from your eyes and mouth and two luminous, incorporeal wings sprout from your back. You can on each of your turns, cause a burst of searing radiant light in 10ft radius and dim light for another 10ft. All creatures, including yourself and allies, take radiant damage equal to half your character level (rounded up). In addition, once on each of your turns, you can deal extra radiant damage to one target when you do damage to it with an attack or a spell. The radiant damage equals your character level.

If you character is of evil alignment, you gain the Necrotic Shroud transformation. You can use this action to release divine energy within you to cause your eyes to turn into pools of darkness and two skeletal, ghostly wings sprout from your back. Those who are not allies that witness the transformation and who are within 10ft of you must succeed on a Charisma saving throw (DC 8 + your proficiency bonus + your Charisma Modifier) or become frightened until the end of their next turn. You can on each of your turns, deal extra necrotic damage to one target when you deal damage with an attack or spell. The extra damage is equal to your character level.

Genasi

Those who think of other planes at all consider them remote, distant realms, but planar influence can be felt throughout the world. It sometimes manifests in beings who, through an accident of birth, carry the power of the planes in their blood. The genasi are one such people, the offspring of genies (or other elemental beings) and mortals.

The Elemental Planes are often inhospitable to natives of the Material Plane: crushing earth, searing flames, boundless Skies, and endless seas make visiting these places dangerous for even a short time. The powerful genies, however, don't face such troubles when venturing into the mortal world. They adapt well to the mingled elements of the Material Plane, and they sometimes visit—whether of their own volition or compelled by magic. Some genies can adopt mortal guise and travel incognito. During these visits, a mortal might catch a genie's eye. Friendship forms, romance blooms, and sometimes children result. These children are genasi: individuals with ties to two worlds yet belonging to neither. Some genasi are born of mortal-genie unions, others have two genasi as parents, and a rare few have a genie further up their family tree, manifesting an elemental heritage that has lain dormant for generations.

Genasi rarely lack confidence, seeing themselves as equal to almost any challenge in their path. This certainty might manifest as graceful self-assurance in one genasi and as arrogance in another. Such self-confidence can sometimes blind genasi to risk, and their great plans often get them and others into trouble. Too much failure can chip away at even a genasi's sense of self, so they constantly push themselves to improve, honing their talents and perfecting their craft.

As rare beings, genasi might go their entire lives without encountering another one of their kind. There are no great genasi cities or empires. Genasi seldom have communities of their own and typically adopt the cultures and societies into which they are born. The more strange their appearance, the harder time they have. Many genasi lose themselves in teeming cities, where their distinctiveness hardly raises an eyebrow in places accustomed to a variety of different people.

Those living on the frontier, though, have a much harder time. People there tend to be less accepting of differences. Sometimes a cold shoulder and a suspicious glare are the best genasi can hope for; in more backward places, they face ostracism and even violence from people who mistake them for fiends. Facing a hard life, these genasi seek isolation in the wilds, making their homes in mountains or forests, near lakes, or underground.

Most air and fire genasi in the Realms are descendants of the djinn and efreet who once ruled Al'Malik or from the mountainous or volcanic regions of Aislandt. When those rulers were overthrown, their planetouched children were scattered. Over thousands of years, the bloodlines of those genasi have spread into other lands. In contrast, water and earth genasi have no common history. Individuals have difficulty tracing their own lineage, and bloodlines occasionally skip a generation or two. Many earth genasi originated in the North and spread out from there. Water genasi come from coastal areas, the largest concentration of them hailing from the regions surrounding the coasts of ancient Arcadia.

Genasi inherit something from both sides of their dual nature. They resemble humans but have unusual skin color (red, green, blue, or gray), and there is something odd about them. The elemental blood flowing through their veins manifests differently in each genasi, often as magical power. Seen in silhouette, a genasi can usually pass for human. Those of earth or water descent tend to be heavier, while those of air or fire tend to be lighter. A given genasi might have some features reminiscent of the mortal parent (pointed ears from an elf, a stockier frame and thick hair from a dwarf, small hands and feet from a halfling, exceedingly large eyes from a gnome, and so on). Genasi almost never have contact with their elemental parents. Genies seldom have interest in their mortal offspring, seeing them as accidents. Many feel nothing for their genasi children at all. Some genasi live as outcasts, driven into exile for their unsettling appearance and strange magic, or assuming leadership of savage humanoids and weird cults in untamed lands. Others gain positions of great influence, especially where elemental beings are revered. A few genasi leave the Material Plane to find refuge in the households of their genie parents.

Genasi Height & Weight

|               | Base Height                                                                                                                  | Height Modifier | Base Weight | Weight Modifier |
|---------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------------|
| Male   | Use the base mortal stats, but add +1 inch and multiply final weight by 1.1 for Earth Genasi, and 0.9 for Air or Fire Genasi |                 |             |                 |
| Female | Use the base mortal stats, but add +1 inch and multiply final weight by 1.1 for Earth Genasi, and 0.9 for Air or Fire Genasi |                 |             |                 |

Genasi Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Genasi mature at the same rate as humans and reach adulthood in their late teens. They live somewhat longer than humans do and may reach 120 years old. For purposes of game play Humans are considered Medium and move at a speed of 30 feet while walking.

Alignment: Independent and self-reliant, genasi tend towards neutral alignment.

Elemental Type: Genasi are categorized by the element of their ancestry, so may be air, earth, fire and water elemental types. Genasi may gain additional traits depending on their elemental type.

Languages: Genasi speak, read, and write Primordial and the native language of the region where they were raised. They gain bonus languages as per the list of languages for their native region.

Air Genasi Traits

As an air genasi, you are descended from the djinn. As changeable as the weather, your moods shift from calm to wild and violent with little warning, but these storms rarely last long.

Air genasi typically have light blue skin, hair, and eyes. A faint but constant breeze accompanies them, tousling the hair and stirring the clothing. Some air genasi speak with breathy voices, marked by a faint echo. A few display odd patterns in their flesh or grow crystals from their scalps.

Unending Breath: You can hold your breath indefinitely while you are not incapacitated.

Mingle with the Wind: You cast Levitate spell once with this trait, requiring no material components, and you regain the ability to cast it this way when you finish a long rest. Constitution is your spellcasting ability with this spell.

Earth Genasi Traits

As an earth genasi, you are descended from the cruel and greedy Dao, though you are not necessarily evil. You have inherited some measure of control over earth, reveling in superior strength and solid power. You tend to avoid rash decisions, pausing long enough to consider your options before taking action.

Elemental earth manifests differently from one individual to the next. Some earth genasi always have bits of dust falling from their bodies and mud clinging to their clothes, never getting clean no matter how often they bathe. Others are as shiny and polished as gemstones, with skin tones of deep brown or black, eyes sparkling like agates. Earth genasi can also have smooth metallic flesh, dull iron skin spotted with rust, a pebbled and rough hide, or even a coating of tiny, embedded crystals. The most arresting have fissures in their flesh, from which faint light shines.

Earth Walk: You can move across difficult terrain made of earth or stone without expending extra movement.

Mingle with Stone: You cast Pass Without Trace spell once with this trait, requiring no material components, and you regain the ability to cast it this way when you finish a long rest. Constitution is your spellcasting ability with this spell.

Fire Genasi Traits

As a fire genasi, you have inherited the volatile mood and keen mind of the efreet. You tend toward impatience and making snap judgments. Rather than hide your distinctive appearance, you exult in it.

Nearly all fire genasi are feverishly hot as if burning inside, an impression reinforced by flaming red, coal-black, or ash-gray skin tones. The more human looking have fiery red hair that writhes under extreme emotion, while more exotic specimens sport actual flames dancing on their heads. Fire genasi voices might sound like crackling flames, and their eyes flare when angered. Some are accompanied by the faint scent of brimstone.

Darkvision: You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if you were in bright light. Your ties to the Elemental Plane of Fire make your darkvision unusual: everything you see in darkness is in shades of red.

Fire Resistance: You have resistance to fire damage.

Reach to the Blaze: You know the Produce Flame cantrip. Once you reach 3rd level, you can cast the Burning Hands spell once with this trait as a 1st level spell, requiring no material components, and you regain the ability to cast it this way when you finish a long rest. Constitution is your spellcasting ability with this spell.

Water Genasi Traits

The lapping of waves, the spray of sea foam on the wind, the ocean depths—all of these things call to your heart. You wander freely and take pride in your independence, though others might consider you selfish.

Most water genasi look as if they just finished bathing, with beads of moisture collecting on their skin and hair. They smell of fresh rain and clean water. Blue or green skin is common, and most have somewhat overlarge eyes, blue-black in color. A water genasi's hair might float freely, swaying and waving as if underwater. Some have voices with undertones reminiscent of whale song or trickling streams.

Acid Resistance: You have resistance to acid damage.

Amphibious: You can breathe both air and water.

Swim: You have a swimming speed of 30 feet.

Call to the Wave: You know the Shape Water cantrip. Once you reach 3rd level, you can cast the Create or Destroy Water spell once with this trait as a 2nd level spell, requiring no material components, and you regain the ability to cast it this way when you finish a long rest. Constitution is your spellcasting ability with this spell.

Tiefling

The Tiefling is a race of planetouched humanoids. Tieflings are primarily mortal in ancestry but draw part of their bloodline from a powerful evil extraplanar being. The term "Tiefling" was first applied to all humans whose ancestry included any evil extraplanar being of the Lower Planes, such as a demon, devil, evil deity, or other unknown entity. This usage is common among many planar travelers.

Tieflings are widely stereotyped as wicked, cruel, and criminal individuals. While many live up to this image, Tieflings run the full range of good and evil, and vary considerably based on their bloodline and on an individual level. Tieflings have a tendency to be solitary loners. They are adaptable and resilient to hardship and possess strong aptitude at whatever pursuit they dedicate themselves to, whether that be fighting, art, or anything else. Their solitary, driven nature makes Tieflings well suited as adventurers, wanderers, and researchers of magical lore. When facing adversity, the Tiefling instinct is not to withdraw from the world, but rather to challenge it head-on. Tieflings seek to make their own fates, defy the odds, and take risks that even most humans would not dare. They are fiercely independent. Tieflings are known for their quick temper, stubbornness, self-confidence, and fickleness in relationships. They are said to move with a slithering walk. Tieflings learn from a young age that they cannot count on others to care for them and develop a strong sense of self-reliance.

Tieflings descended from a variety of extraplanar creatures can vary widely in appearance, from the monstrous to those who pass for human. These unique traits may give a clue to the Tiefling's ancestry. Some have few of these traits, while others have several. A Tiefling's skin may be an unusual color, tinted green, blue or red. It may be leathery, scaly, extremely greasy, or covered in striped markings. They may be covered in fur, hair, or small feathers, or even entirely hairless. The Tiefling's hair may be green, blue, or multicolored. They may have small horns on their forehead or temples, or a single horn on their forehead. Their eyes may be red, catlike, or pure black with no whites, or extremely deep-set, and they may have long eyelashes. Their teeth may be pointed, or they may have vampire-like fangs. They may have a forked tongue, or a long thin face. Their ears may be pointed or fanlike, and their nose may be very long or almost unnoticeably small. Their hands may have six fingers, or three, and their fingers may be a full inch longer than a human's. Their fingernails may be naturally red or black. Their arms may be considerably longer or shorter than normal. Their legs may be like those of a goat or horse, and they may have goatlike hooves instead of feet. They may have a tail, which might be long and thin, or more like that of a horse or lizard. They can have a spiny ridge on their back, or spines all over their body. A few have clawed fingers which can be used as effective weapons. Other unique traits are recorded, including pale white skin, horrid translucent skin and vestigial hands growing from a Tiefling's neck.

Tiefling Height & Weight

|        | Base Height                            | Height Modifier | Base Weight | Weight Modifier |
|--------|----------------------------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------------|
| Male   | Use the base mortal stats, but add +2" |                 |             |                 |
| Female | Use the base mortal stats, but add +2" |                 |             |                 |

Tiefling Traits

Age, Size, & Speed: Tieflings physically mature at the same rate as humans; however, they can live to reach 160 years old. Tieflings are considered Medium for game purposed and move at a speed of 30ft. Choose 1d4 +1 of the following features: small horns; fangs; sharp teeth; forked tongue; small bat-like wings (useless for flight); catlike eyes; six fingers; goat-like legs; cloven hoofs; forked tail; leathery or scaled skin; red or dark blue skin; can no shadow or reflection; or exude a smell of brimstone (more intense when angry or casting spells).

Alignment: Tieflings might not have an innate tendency toward evil, but many of them do. Evil or not, an independent nature inclines Tiefling's toward a chaotic alignment.

Languages: Tieflings start out speaking, reading, and writing either Infernal or Abyssal (depending on heritage) and the native language of the region in which they were raised. If the character can learn more languages, they choose from the bonus language list of the region where they were raised.

Darkvision: Thanks to your infernal heritage, you can see in dark or dim conditions. You can see dim light up to 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Hellish Resistance: You have resistance to fire damage.

Healing Hands: As an action, you can touch a creature and cause it to regain a number of hit points equal to your level. Once the trait is used, you cannot use it again until you finish a long rest.

Infernal or Abyssal Ancestry: You know one cantrip from Warlock spell list, in addition you may also cast Detect Evil and Good. At 3rd level you know 1 1st level spell from the Warlock spell list and at 5th level you know 1 2nd Level from the same spell list. You may cast these spells once each with this trait and you regain them after the equivalent of a long rest. Charisma is your spell casting ability for them.

Winged: You have bat-like wings sprouting from your shoulders. You have flying speed while you are not wearing heavy armor.

Yuan-ti

The serpent creatures known as the yuan-ti are all that remains of an ancient decadent human empire. Ages ago their dark gods taught them profane, cannibalistic rituals to mix their flesh with that of snakes, producing a caste-based society of hybrids in which most the snake-like are the leaders and the most humanlike are spies and agents in foreign lands.

The people who became yuan-ti were one of the original human civilizations. Their society built great temples of stone and forged metal into armor, tools, and weapons. In their ceremonies they paid homage to snakes as the embodiment of the qualities they most appreciated. They developed a philosophy of separating emotion from intellectual pursuits, allowing them to focus their energy on personal advancement and expanding their territory. They believed themselves to be the most enlightened mortals in the world, and in their hubris they sought to become ever greater.

The serpent gods of the primordial world heeded the prayers of these people and hissed dark demands into their ears. The people tainted their souls by performing human sacrifices in the name of the gods, debased their flesh by cannibalizing their victims, and then performed a sorcerous ritual while writing in pools filled with living snakes that enabled them to mix their flesh with that of serpents, becoming like the gods in body, thought, and emotion. Freed from the limitations of their human bodies, the yuan-ti used their new abilities to conquer new lands and expand their borders.

The bodies of all yuan-ti have a mix of humanlike and snakelike parts, but the proportion varies from individual to individual. After their initial metamorphosis of the humans, their society quickly coalesced into a caste system based on how complete a person's transformation was. The vast majority of yuan-ti fall into three categories – abominations, malisons, and purebloods – while the mutated broodguards and exceedingly rare anathemas have their place in the hierarchy as well.

All yuan-ti can interbreed. Females usually lay clutches of eggs, which are stored in a common hatchery, although live births are not uncommon. A mating between yuan-ti of different types almost always produces eggs that hatch into yuan-ti of the “weaker” parent, so most choose partners of the same type in the interest of maintaining the strength of their personal blood line.

They yuan-ti have abandoned their humanity and consider non-serpent humanoids to be lesser creatures, barely more civilized than common apes. Although some purebloods are able to reproduce with humans, most are disgusted by the idea and would do so only if seduction is necessary for a pureblood to preserve a role as a confidant or advisor in human society. The very rare offspring of such a union are always purebloods, although they may appear fully human at birth and for several years after.

Pureblood

The most numerous of the yuan-ti, purebloods are also the most humanlike, exhibiting only one or two snake-like features such as slitted eyes or patches of scales on the skin.

In yuan-ti cities, purebloods are treated fairly but live in an environment where their wants and needs are eclipsed by those of the malisons and abominations.

Because purebloods can easily pass as humans, their most important function is as agents of the yuan-ti in the outside world. They can live incognito among humans as diplomats, infiltrators, and spies. Because they get to wield power and influence while playing such roles, some purebloods surround themselves with luxury in their human guises and then become resentful when they have to return home and live under the caste system again.

Pureblood Traits

Your yuan-ti pureblood character – called a pureblood for short – has the following racial traits.

Age, Size, Speed: Pureblood mature at the same rate as humans and have lifespans similar to theirs. Purebloods match humans in average size and weight. Your size is Medium. Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Alignment: Generally speaking, purebloods are devoid of emotion and see others as tools to manipulate. They care little for law or chaos and are typically neutral evil.

Darkvision: You can see in dim light within 60 feet of you as if it were bright light, and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Innate Spellcasting: You know the poison spray cantrip. You can cast animal friendship an unlimited number of times with this trait, but you can target only snakes with it. Starting at 3rd level, you can also cast suggestion with this trait. Once you cast it, you cannot do so again until you finish a long rest. Charisma is your spellcasting ability for these spells.

Magic Resistance: You have advantage on saving throws against spells and other magical effects.

Poison Immunity: You are immune to poison damage and the poisoned condition.

Languages: You can read, write, and speak Draconic, Abyssal, Nessian. If you can learn additional languages you can learn Al'Malik, Sikassan, Arcadian, Infernal, Tabaxi.

Lineages

The lineages provided in this section represent a physical and magical transformation that alters you fundamental ways. You can still appear as you once were, but you have changed in significant ways that might overwrite your once physical and magical capabilities. A Fae Elf who becomes a dhampir, for instance, loses their connection to their fae ancestry as the deathless power of vampirism surges through them. Some racial traits might remain after you gain a lineage; a possibility captured in the Ancestral Lineage trait. Keep this in mind when you explore the details of how to change after gaining a lineage subsequent to character creation.

The following lineages are races that characters might gain through remarkable events. These overshadow their original race, if any, becoming their new race. A character might choose a lineage during character creation, their transformation having occurred before play begins. Or events might unfold during adventures that lead your character to replacing their race with this new lineage. Work with your DM to establish if you are amenable to such a development and how such stories unfold.

Creating your Character

---

At 1st level, you choose your character's race, alternatively, you can choose one of the following lineages. If you choose a lineage, you might have once been a member of another race, but you are not any longer. You now possess your lineage's racial traits.

When you create a character using a lineage option here, follow the additional rules during character creation.

Languages

Your character can speak, read, and write the languages of your base race, plus one additional language that you and your DM agree is appropriate for the character. If you are replacing your race with a lineage, you retain any languages you had and gain no new languages.

Dhampir

---

Poised between the worlds of the living and the dead, dhampirs retain their grip on life yet are endlessly tested by viscous hungers. Their ties to the undead grant dhampirs a taste of a vampire's deathless prowess in the form of increased speed, darkvision, and a life-draining bite.

With unique insights into the nature of the undead, many dhampirs become adventurers and monster hunters. Their reasons are often deeply personal. Some seek danger, imagining monsters as personifications of their own hungers. Others pursue revenge against whatever turned them into a dhampir. And still others embrace the solitude of the hunt, striving to distance themselves from those who would tempt their hunger.

Dhampir Hungers

Every dhampir knows a thirst slaked only by the living. Those who overindulge their thirst risk losing control and forever viewing others as prey. Those who resist might find exceptional ways to controlling their urges or suppress them through constant, molar-grinding restraint. In any case, temptation haunts dhampirs, and circumstances conspire to give them endless reasons to indulge.

While many dhampirs thirst for blood, your character might otherwise gain sustenance from the living by other means. Choose an option from the Dhampir Hungers table or work with your DM to determine what tempts your character to feed.

Dhampir Hungers

| d6 | Dhampir Hunger        |
|----|-----------------------|
| 1  | Blood                 |
| 2  | Flesh or raw meat     |
| 3  | Cerebral spinal fluid |
| 4  | Psychic energy        |
| 5  | Dreams                |
| 6  | Life Energy           |

Dhampir Origins

Dhampirs often arise from encounters with vampires, but all manner of macabre bargains, necromantic influences, and encounters with mysterious immortals might have transformed your character. Choose an origin from the Dhampir Origins table or work with your DM to determine how your character gained their lineage.

Dhampir Origins

| d8 | Dhampir Origin                                                                                 |
|----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You are the reincarnation of an ancestor who was a vampiric tyrant                             |
| 2  | Your pact with a predatory deity, fiend, fae, or ki causes you to share their hunger           |
| 3  | You survived being attacked by a vampire but were forever changed                              |
| 4  | A parasite lives inside you. You indulge its hunger                                            |
| 5  | Tragedy interrupted your transformation into an immortal                                       |
| 6  | You are the diminished form of an otherworldly being. Slaking your hunger hastens your renewal |
| 7  | One of your parents was a vampire                                                              |
| 8  | A radical experiment changed your body, making you reliant on others for vital fluids          |

Dhampir Traits

You have the following racial traits.

Creature Type: Humanoid

Size: You retain the size of your base race

Speed: your speed is 35 feet.

Ancestral Legacy: You can choose to keep the following elements of your base race: any skill proficiencies and any climbing, flying, or swimming speed.

If you do not keep any of these elements, you gain proficiency in two skills of your choice.

Darkvision: You can see in dim light up to 60 feet as if it were bright light and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Deathless Nature: You do not need to breathe.

Spider Climb: You have climbing speed equal to your walking speed. In addition, at 3rd level, you can move up, down, and across vertical surfaces and upside down along the ceilings, while leaving your hands free.

Vampiric Bite: Your fanged bite is a natural weapon, which counts as a simple melee weapon with which you are proficient. You add your Constitution modifier, instead of your Strength modifier, to the attack and damage rolls when you attack with this bite. It deals 1d4 piercing damage on a hit. While you are missing half or more of your hit points, you have advantage on attack rolls you make with this bite.

When you attack with this bite and hit a creature that is not a Construct or an Undead, you can empower yourself in one of the following ways of your choice:

- You regain hit points equal to the piercing damage dealt by the bite
- You gain a bonus to the next ability check or attack roll you make; the bonus equals the piercing damage dealt by the bite

You can empower yourself with this bite a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus, and you regain all expended uses when you finish a long rest.

Hexblood

Where wishing fails, ancient magic can offer a heart's desire – at least for a time. Hexbloods are individuals infused with eldritch magic, fae energy, or mysterious witchcraft. Some who enter into bargains with hags gain their deepest wishes but eventually find themselves transformed. These changes evidence a hag's influence:

ears that split into forked skin, skin in lurid shades, long hair that regrows if cut, and an irremovable living crown. Along with these marks, Hexbloods manifest hag-like traits, such as darkvision and a variety of magical methods to beguile the senses and avoid the same.

While many Hexbloods gain their lineage after making a deal with a hag, others reveal their nature as they age – particularly if a hag had influenced them early in life or even before their birth. Many Hexblood turn to lives of adventure, seeking to discover the mysteries of their magic, to forge a connection with their fae natures, or to avoid a hag that obsess over them.

Heir of Hags

One-way hags create more of their kind is through the creation of Hexbloods. Every Hexblood exhibit features suggestive of the hag whose magic inspires their powers. This includes an unusual crown, often called an eldercross or witch's turn. This living, garland-like part of a Hexblood's body extends from their temples and wraps around their head, serving as a visible mark of the bargain between hag and Hexblood, a debt owed, or a change to come.

Hexblood Origins

A bargain with a hag or other eerie forces transformed your character into a magical being. Choose an option from the Hexblood Origins table or work with your DM determine how your character gained their lineage.

Hexblood Origins

| d6 | Hexblood Origin                                                                                                           |
|----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | Seeking a child, your parents made a bargain with a hag. You are the result of that arrangement                           |
| 2  | Fae kidnappers swapped you and your parents' child                                                                        |
| 3  | A coven of hags lost one of its members. You were created to replace the lost hag                                         |
| 4  | You were cursed as a child. A deal with the spirits of the forest transformed you in to a Hexblood, now free of the curse |
| 5  | You began life as a fae creature, but an accident changed you and forced you from your home                               |
| 6  | A slighted druid transformed you and bound you to live only so long as a sacred tree bears fruit                          |

Hexblood Traits

You have the following racial traits.

Creature Type: Fae

Size: You retain the size of your base race

Speed: your speed is 30 feet.

Ancestral Legacy: You can choose to keep the following elements of your base race: any skill proficiencies and any climbing, flying, or swimming speed.

If you do not keep any of these elements, you gain proficiency in two skills of your choice.

Darkvision: You can see in dim light up to 60 feet as if it were bright light and in darkness as if it were dim light. You cannot discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

Eerie Token: As a bonus action, you can harmlessly remove a lock of your hair, one of your nails, or one of your teeth. This token is imbued with magic until you finish a long rest. While the token is imbued in this way, you can take these actions:

Telepathic Message: As an action, you can send a telepathic message to a creature holding or carrying the token, as long as you are within 10 miles of it. The message can contain up to twenty-five words.

Remote Viewing: If you are within 10 miles of the token, you can enter a trance as an action. The trance lasts for 1 minute but ends early if you dismiss it (no action required) or are incapacitated. During this trance, you can see and hear from the token as if you were located where it is. While you are using your senses at the token's location, you are blinded and deafened in regard to your own surroundings. When the trance ends, the token is harmlessly destroyed.

Once you create a token using this feature, you cannot do so again until you finish a long rest, at which point your missing part regrows.

Hex Magic: You can cast the disguise self and hex spells with this trait. Once you cast either of these spells with this trait, you cannot cast that spell with it again until you finish a long rest. You can also cast these spells using any spell slots you have.

Intelligence, Wisdom, or Charisma is your spellcasting ability for these spells (choose the ability when you gain this lineage).

Reborn

Death is not always the end. The reborn exemplify this, being individuals who have died; yet, somehow, still live. Some reborn exhibit the scars of fatal ends, their ashen flesh or bloodless veins making it clear they have been touched by death. Other reborn are marvels of magic or science, being stitched together from desperate beings or bearing mysterious minds in manufactured bodies. Whatever their origins, reborn know a new life and answer all their own.

Faded Memories

Reborn suffer from some manner of discontinuity, an interruption of their lives or physical state that their minds are ill equipped to deal with. Their memories of events before this interruption are often vague or absent. Occasionally, the most unexpected experiences might cause sensations or visions of the past to come rushing back.

Rather than sleeping, reborn regularly sit and dwell on the past, hoping for some revelation of what came before. Most of the time, these are dark, silent stretches. Occasionally, though, in a moment of peace, stress or excitement, a reborn gains a glimpse of what came before. When you desire to have such dreamlike visions, use the Lost Memories table or work with the DM to inspire its details.

Lost Memories

| D6 | Lost Memory                                                                                            |
|----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You recall a physically painful moment. What mark or scar on your body does it relate to               |
| 2  | A memory brings tears to your eyes. Is it a bitter oof cheerful memory                                 |
| 3  | You recall a childhood memory. What about that event or who you were still influences you              |
| 4  | A memory brings with it the voice of someone close to you. How do they advise you?                     |
| 5  | You recall enjoying something that you cannot stand doing now. What is it? Why do you not like it now? |
| 6  | A memory carries a vivid smell or sensation. What are you going to do to recreate that experience?     |

Reborn Origins

Reborn might originate from circumstances similar to those of various undead or constructs. The Reborn Origins table provides suggestions for how your character became reborn.

Reborn Origins

| d8 | Reborn Origins                                                                                    |
|----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1  | You were magically resurrected, but something went wrong                                          |
| 2  | Stitches bind your body's mismatched pieces, and your memories come from multiple different lives |
| 3  | After clawing free from your grave, you realized you have no memories except for a single name    |
| 4  | You were a necromancer's undead servant for years. One day, your consciousness returned           |
| 5  | You awoke in an abandoned laboratory alongside complex designs for clockwork organs               |

- |   |                                                                                                                                  |
|---|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6 | You were released after being petrified for generations. Your memories have faded, though, and your body is not what it once was |
| 7 | Your body hosts a possessing spirit that shares its memories and replaces your missing appendages with phantasmal limbs          |
| 8 | In public, you pass as an unremarkable individual, but you can feel the itchy straw stuffing inside you                          |

Reborn Traits

You have the following racial traits.

Creature Type: Humanoid

Size: You retain the size of your base race

Speed: your speed is 30 feet.

Ancestral Legacy: You can choose to keep the following elements of your base race: any skill proficiencies and any climbing, flying, or swimming speed.

If you do not keep any of these elements, you gain proficiency in two skills of your choice.

Deathless Nature: You have escaped death, a fact represented by the following benefits:

- You have advantage on saving throws against disease and being poisoned, and you have resistance to poison damage.
- You have advantage on death saving throws
- You do not need to eat, drink, or breathe
- You do not need to sleep, and magic cannot put you to sleep. You can finish a long rest in 4 hours if you spend those hours in an inactive, motionless state, during which you retain consciousness

Knowledge from a Past Life: You temporarily remember glimpses of the past, perhaps faded memories from ages ago or a previous life. When you make an ability check that uses a skill, you can roll a d6 immediately after seeing the number on the d20 and add the d6 to the check. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your proficiency bonus, and you regain all expended uses when you finish a long rest.